THIRTY-SIXTH YEAR

LIMA, OHIO, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1921

PRICE THREE CENTS

Schooling

The other day a lanky mountain boy entered the office of business manager of a Kentucky college and blurted out, "Want any sorghum?"

The manager did not, couldn't figure how he could use any.

"That's bad," said the boy.

Interested, the manager questioned the shy youth. This is what he was told.

"We had more than we needed this year and dad told me I could trade a barrel of it for schooling."

The deal was arranged, probably the first time sorghum was ever traded for education. The boy was determined to get schooling.

How many boys and girls attending Lima schools are as determined to secure an education as was this boy? He realized what book learning is worth; what it means to face the world without it.

Color

WHY do we wear black for mourning? Because it is somber, you probably think. Mohammedans use purple when they go into mourning. Chinese, to advertise grief, wear white and blue.

Papers of pins wouldn't sell readily in our country if the paper were black. Neither did pins from England, in blue paper, sell in China. Along came the Germans, flooded the Chinese market with pins stuck in a red paper—and walked off with all the business, for red is the lucky color of China, green is unlucky.

That a simple thing like color can regulate foreign trade, brings home that any important venture is apt to be wrecked on a seemingly minor detail.

Psychology of color is valuable knowledge for you. What is your favorite color? It "gives your number."

Mothers

MRS. Pencoak, Chicago widow and mother of eight dependent children under 12 years of age, gets the largest mother's pension ever granted—$130 a month. She will have to be a good manager and pare her potato skins thin, to make ends meet on that.

But it's a step forward. Some day every mother will be eligible for a pension, with bonuses for big families. A good investment. Babies are the nation's real wealth.

Cheaper

COST of living still bothers you? But it might be worse. For instance, if you lived abroad. Prices have fallen faster in the United States than in any other country. That means we'll get back to normal first.

It will make your income go further. Equally important, it will give us the low costs that will enable us to compete in the world markets for foreign trade.

Deflation is as bitter as quinine, but it's the only medicine good for what ails us now.

Grimes

IN 1804, a Brooks-co. West Virginia, a farmer discovered that he had a new type of apple in his orchard. He named it the Grimes Golden and he sent some down the rivers on a freight packet, for sale to New Orleans traders.

Now, says the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station, the Grimes Golden is recognized as being the most perfect apple. It yields an average of 17 bushels of apples a year for each tree and is grown from Virginia to Arkansas. Farmer who had the original Grimes Golden tree would be dumfounded at that. You never can tell what you are starting.

For Rent

FAMILIES can double up to save rent, but when the list of empty houses becomes noticeably long, it means that there is a definite movement back to the farm.

New York City, for instance, says report by its Tenement House Department, has 982,930 vacant apartments, a figure so big that it is almost unbelievable. The farm is better than the bread line, and some folks are keen enough to see it.

Grasshoppers

NINETY thousand dollars for a scientific study of the grasshopper is asked by a bill introduced in Congress. A waste of money? Not if properly handled, it if it brings farmers a step nearer an end of the grasshopper pest that often destroys many times $90.00 worth of crops in a single day.

The boll weevil has just destroyed 60,000,000 worth of cotton. Now a European corn borer appears in northern Ohio and threatens to read west into the great corn belt.

Money for war against insect pests more sensible, times over, than money for war against humans.

TWO ROBBERS TAKEN

3 DIE AS SUB SINKS

WAR VESSEL LOST OFF CALIFORNIA

R-6 Goes Down While Preparing For Battle Practice.

FILLS THRU TORPEDO TUBE

20 Men Aboard Submarine—Death List May Grow.

SAN PEDRO, Calif. — (By Associated Press) — Three men are believed to have lost their lives when the United States submarine R-6 sank in the outer harbor here last night, the result of an unexplained accident, it was stated at the submarine base here today.

In addition to an electrician named Spaulsberg, who was reported to have been blown from the sinking craft, and J. Dreffen, a seaman, reported imprisoned in the submarine, officers at the base said another unidentified man was thought to have gone down.

Divers were working in 35 feet of water this morning alongside the R-6 endeavoring to fix hawsers to the craft which would make it possible to raise her to the surface. It was possible, according to naval men, that any one inside might have escaped to an air-tight compartment, in which life might be sustained for forty-eight hours.

COMMANDER LOST

LOS ANGELES — (By Associated Press) — Lieutenant I. R. Chambers, who was in command of the submarine R-6, is reported to have been the last man to make an escape from the craft when it sank last night in the outer harbor at San Pedro, with a reported loss of two men.

After Lieutenant Chambers left the submarine he immediately began to aid members of the crew unable to swim to get to lifeboats and pieces of floating timbers.

TORPEDO TUBE OPENS

According to a story told by witnesses of the accident who were aboard the tender Camden and the sister ships, the R-6 was tied up at six o'clock last night with two hawsers binding her to three sister ships and two hawsers connecting the string of submarines with the mother ship.

Prior to the disaster the entire crew, it was said, was inside the hull getting torpedoes ready for battle practice. Suddenly the rear torpedo tube apparently yielded to sea pressure and opened. The vessel began to fill rapidly and the members of the crew rushed for the conning tower.

One of the first men to reach the outside of the submarine was seen to cut the hawsers, releasing the other submarines.

GAS EXPLOSION

Just as the man believed to have been Paulsberg, who was reported drowned, reached the conning tower ladder there was what seemed to be a gas explosion and it is said the man was thrown clear of the tower, a stream of water following after him.

The man believed to have been J. Dreffen, reported drowned, never reached the tower ladder, it is said, and he is believed to have gone down with the boat.

The R-6 was of the Holland type, built in 1918. Lieutenants E. D. Jutt and J. M. Steel were both junior officers.

The crew of the R-6 included twenty officers and men and efforts are being made to check the accounts for and the missing to determine if any more men were lost. Up to midnight no statement had been issued by navy officials.

It is said that the submarine went down bow first. As soon as the alarm was sounded searchlights from all ships of the fleet lying at anchor in the harbor were turned onto the scene of the disaster.

REPORTED TO WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON — The sinking of the submarine R-6 last night in the harbor at San Pedro, Calif., was reported to the navy department today in official dispatches which said that two members of the submarine crew probably had lost their lives.

The first dispatch gave no details not contained in press dispatches and no indication as to the cause of the accident.

DISTRICT GOVERNOR OF KIWANIS IS HERE

Albert Miller, Toledo.

KIWANIS MEET IS IN FULL SWING

Cincinnati Makes Bid For The 1922 Convention.

ELECT OFFICERS WEDNESDAY

Contest Develops For Position of Governor.

The Ohio district convention of Kiwanis clubs was in full swing Tuesday.

Five hundred and twenty-three were registered at noon, and as many more were expected to be in attendance before night.

Every incoming train and interurban brought delegates. Two special interurban cars carrying only Kiwanians were to arrive later in the day. One is from Toledo and the other starts from Springfield.

A delegation of 100 from Cleveland arrived at 11:34 over the Pennsylvania lines, headed by a brass band.

Cincinnati is represented by approximately 100 Kiwanians, and Tuesday they were driving hard to land the 1922 convention. Queen City boosters at the convention headquarters in the Argonne hotel pinned badges on visitors when they arrived, and impressed them with the fact that Cincinnati is making a supreme effort to land the next meeting.

No other city has yet made a bid for the 1922 convention. Jim Morton and Austin Folter, the only two Lima men who attended the convention last year in Toledo, won the meeting this year for Lima.

FIRST SESSION HELD

The convention officially opened at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning in the lodge rooms at the Elks' home. Three hundred Kiwanians jammed into the hall and their yells and singing could be heard for blocks.

Jim Morton and Don John put the pep into the meeting and the start was an enthusiastic one. Rev. Samuel Huecker, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, spoke the invocation.

Mayor F. A. Burkhardt and Walter S. Jackson, president of the Lima Kiwanis club, told the delegates how glad Lima was to have them here.

The mayor gave them the key to the city and told them to go as far as they like toward having the best time in their life.

Albert H. Miller, district governor, of Toledo, told how glad the visitors were to be here. This was followed by 15-minute reports by various state officers and committees.

At 11:45 the meeting adjourned. All delegates swarmed to the banquet hall at the Elks' home, where a regular Kiwanis noon luncheon-meeting was enjoyed. Edward T. Clayton, lieutenant governor, of Cincinnati, presided.

Don John and Jim Morton again entered into the limelight and for half an hour Kiwanis chatters and yells were engaged in. Songs were sung, and in the short time the pep-piest district luncheon-meeting was under way.

Added to this, Edward F. Arras, immediate past governor, of Columbus, delivered a 15-minute speech. Toledo, Alliance and Wellsville clubs put on stunts and made the hall shake with laughter.

Business was laid aside during the afternoon and two important events were on tap. Following a parade thru the up-town streets, headed by the Cleveland Kiwanis band, the caravan proceeded to the Lima State hospital.

On returning to Lima the first stop was to be made at the Murphy-st ball park where the Lima Kiwanis club baseball team was to play a team representing the Akron club.

After the game the delegates and their wives will be given until 6:30 to get "dolled up" for the Governor's ball in the banquet room at the Elks' home. This is always one of the big features of the annual convention, given in honor of the district governor.

Walter S. Jackson is to preside at the banquet and John H. Moss, assistant governor, will be in charge.

FEW OUT OF WORK AT SPOKANE

Many of the Idle Given Jobs in Orchards.

MUCH BUILDING PLANNED

Banking and General Trade Outlook Good, Spillane Told.

(By RICHARD SPILLANE)

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 27.— Industrially and commercially, agriculturally and financially, Spokane and the territory tributary to Spokane are doing quite well. Spokane had no war industries and consequently knew no shock from their loss.

Its immediate establishments are of modest size. These include wood working plants, packing houses flour mills, news print mills, agricultural and mining machinery, factories, clothing manufactures that turn out overalls, mackinaws, women and childrens washdresses, mens suits and overcoats, workshirts, sweaters, hosiery, bathing suits, scarfs, etc. There are various cement plants, one of them a branch of the Lehigh Portland and cement company, of Allentown, Penna., and in Stevens county there are two big magnesite quarries. Magnesite is essential to the making of the fire brick used in the lining of blast furnaces. Not far from Spokane, in Coeur d'Alene country of Idaho are the greatest lead mines of the world and also some silver and zinc properties of importance. They are busy in the Coeur d'Alene. That helps and there is no unemployment strain. Some months ago there were 2,400 persons out of work. This has been reduced to 2,000. Orchards have taken some of those who were idle. There is a persistent demand for pickers and packers. There is considerable construction work planned for this winter, including the building of a large armory and eight road jobs aggregating 120 miles of highly improved.

Agriculture is the big thing in the state of Washington. While reports would seem to conflict as to the general situation, a gloomy picture being painted by the people from the dry farm sections and a bright one by those of irrigated territory, the sum and substance would seem to be that the state as a whole has done unusually well. A wheat yield of nearly 52,000,000 bushels is reported by the federal reserve bank people as against a little less than 38,000,000 last year, a gain of 26 per cent. The largest apple crop in the history of the Northwest is being marketed. It aggregates 24,540,000 bushels. An excellent potato yield and a bountiful berry crop add to the big returns. While the wheat does not satisfy the farmer, failure of the apple crop in the east and a poor potato crop there also have tended to give a far greater money return to the growers of the northwest than was expected.

Views of bankers vary. Those whose business has been largely in territories not under irrigation say it will take a year or two more for the farmers to clear up their obligations. Those whose loans have been to fruit grovers and farmers with irrigated acres are real chipper. All agree, however, that the northwest farmer is determined in clearing up his obligations at the earliest possible day and, generally speaking, collections are good.

H. D. Trunkey, of McClintock, Trunkey and company, wholesale grocers, says there is a better tone to all business in his line the volume has increased, altho the money total is less. Farmers, he observes, use less men to harvest crops and the fewer men work better. There is a decided showing, too, of farmers helping each other. His collections are good and he finds people determined to get out of debt.

"Decline in values has ended," he says. "We have started up again. Deflation has ended."

TRAGEDY ENDS THEIR HONEYMOON

MR. AND MRS. JOHN D. KETTELE

FULLER FAMILY MEETS IN ANNUAL REUNION

COLUMBUS GROVE — The third annual reunion of the Fuller family was held Sunday at the home of Samuel Busck here, attended by forty relatives. Games and a social time featured the afternoon.

It was decided to hold the meeting next year the first Sunday in September at the home of Harry Busck in Findlay. Relatives present included Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Fullerton, M. L. Barfell and daughters Pearl and Eve, Jacob Fuller and daughter Ima, all of Columbus Grove; Harry Busck and family, Mrs. Edwin Marquart, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Busck, all of Findlay; Mr. and Mrs. John Reed and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Fuller, all of Wausau; Willis Fuller and family, and Alfred Fuller and family, all of Colton.

REPORTS DENIED

Wilson Is Not Backing Fight Against the Peace Treaty.

WASHINGTON. — (By United Press) — Reports that former President Wilson is backing the fight in the senate against the German-American peace treaty were denied today by Senator Pat Harrison, leader of the Democratic fight against the pact.

Senator Carter Glass, also one of the Democrats opposing the treaty, denied the report.

Joseph T. Mully, formerly secretary to Wilson, declared the former president was taking no part whatever in the treaty fight.

Harrison denounced the report, which was printed in a number of newspapers, as a Republican coup to strengthen wavering Republican support of the treaty in the senate.

Glass said he had seen Wilson several times during the last two months and that the former president never mentioned the treaty.

The report that Senator John Sharp Williams saw Wilson just before he announced his opposition to the treaty in the senate yesterday also was denied.

AGED TRAINMAN DEAD

TOLEDO — Charles H. Bradbury, 75, formerly a conductor between Toledo and Buffalo on the Twentieth Century Limited and for 45 years an employee of the New York Central railroad, died at his home yesterday. Bradbury was a Civil war veteran and one of the oldest members of the I. O. O. F., in Ohio.

DROP IN IDLE CARS

WASHINGTON — Idle freight cars on American railroads numbered 17,267 less on September 15, than they did one week previously, the Association of Railway Executives reported today. Cars idle on September 15 totaled 433,536 of which 213,545 were awaiting repairs.

BIG THEFTS HERE CLEARING UP

International Thieves Held in Ft. Wayne Jail.

$10,000 LOOT IS RECOVERED

Lima People Go To Identify Stolen Property.

After operating in Lima on two different occasions during the past month and extending their nefarious vocation to a score of other cities, a international thieves, a man and a woman, are in jail at Fort Wayne, Ind., returned to that city from Rockford, Ill., where they were captured September 24, charged with wholesale theft.

The man is Robert McIntyre, 30, alias L. P. Wadsworth, alias Earl J. Kirby, alias James J. Brooks, and is supposed to have come from Kansas City, Mo.

With him was Eata Harrins, 24, alias Marie Castle, alias Helen Winthrop. She is said to have come from Eridell, Texas. She was formerly a stenographer in Dayton. McIntyre is held on charges of burglary, grand larceny and forgery. The woman is held for burglary.

ROBBED RESIDENCE

They are accused of the robbery of the W. E. Bond residence in Ft. Wayne and were returned to the Indiana city. When arrested, McIntyre and the Harring woman had ten suit cases and two trunks filled with finished and unfinished fabrics and other valuables representing a total of $10,000.

McIntyre is considered one of the most dangerous international crooks operating in the United States and in Canada. He is under heavy guard in the Ft. Wayne jail, as he is an expert in lockpicking and his possessions found an elaborate set of diagrams of locks of all kinds, with minute instructions for their operation. When placed under arrest in Rockford, McIntyre made a desperate attempt to shoot the detective who trailed and nabbed the pair.

WORKED IN LIMA TWICE

McIntyre and the woman visited Lima twice during the past summer. They were here from May 19 to 21 and from May 30 to August 30. Notations in a diary maintained by the Harring woman, found in one of the suit cases, disclosed this fact.

They had deposits in two Lima banks of more than $3,000, the diary still further shows. They also carried big deposits in banks in Dayton in Montreal, Canada; in Townsend, California, and in New Jersey.

The diary shows that the pair operated in Cincinnati from January 5 to February 15; Kansas City April 25 to 28; Lincoln, Neb., April 29 and 30; Omaha, Neb., April 30 to May 2; Des Moines, Iowa, May 2 to 5. They were one day each in Davenport, Iowa; Rock Island, Ill.; Peoria, Ill.; Decatur, Ill.; Terre Haute, Indianapolis, Muncie and Ft. Wayne. They also spent some time in Chicago and other large cities.

After working Springfield May 23 to 25; they returned to Lima. Their operations here covered a period of more than three months.

Letters found among the possessions of the woman, in the suit cases and trunks, afforded further evidence of the wholesale operations of the pair, altho dates and names of towns and persons had been cut out. The police department at Ft. Wayne, is engaged in making an inventory of the hundreds of articles of loot taken from the trunks and suit cases taken.

McIntyre was arraigned in municipal court in Ft. Wayne, Tuesday, the case was continued until October 2, for the purpose of permitting the police time to marshal more evidence from the places where the pair operated.

BELIEVED HER THIRD TIME

Believing that the pair visited Lima again during the month of September and that they committed the $2,600 jewelry robbery at the G. E. McHaffey home last week, as well as at various other places in this city, Chief of Police Roush, after having been informed of the arrest of the pair in Ft. Wayne, arranged to go to Ft. Wayne during the afternoon, accompanied by Lima people whose residences were robbed during the summer, with a view to identification of part of the loot recovered.

Chief Roush was accompanied to Ft. Wayne by David Owen, G. E. McHaffey, Mrs. Myrtle Wells and Mrs. W. Custerhord, whose homes were robbed in this city.

JURY IS SELECTED IN JOHN BURKE MURDER CASE

TOLEDO — Eleven tentative jurors were in the jury box when the first degree murder trial of John Burke, alias McGulra, was resumed in Judge Brough's common pleas court here today and indications are that the jury will be completed and the taking of testimony started before court adjourns tonight.

Burke is accused of having killed two New York Central railroad detectives in a daylight holdup here last January 17 in which $10,000 of railroad funds was stolen.

County Prosecutor Stuart, who will insist on the death penalty if depending upon the testimony of Vivian Larrimore, colored, common law wife of Royce Richardson, who was electrocuted July 1, for the same crime, for identification of Burke.

ATTEND NEWS BASEBALL PARTY

THE LIMA NEWS has planned the greatest baseball party in the history of Lima for fans during the world's series which opens October 5.

Hundreds already have seen the big mechanical board erected in front of The News office in E. High-st, on which the world series games will be played play by play as they come off the wire. It is so arranged that it may be plainly seen for half a block and all who desire may watch the game.

Next to being at the ball parks where the games are played, fans will want to attend The News' baseball party this year. This newspaper has spent a big sum to secure this exclusive board, declared to be the finest arrangement for reproducing baseball games ever invented. It is easy to understand and every phase of the game is before the audience at all times.

Plays made on the diamonds where the two league champions are battling are reproduced on the board only an instant after they are made on the field by the actual players. One of The Lima News press wires will be given over exclusively to world's series baseball for this player board.

Everyone is invited to attend this great baseball party. The board will be in operation thruout the series. Special arrangements have been made with the safety department to keep the portion of the street used by the audience clear of machines, which will insure maximum convenience for fans.

KLAN QUIZ HITS CITY OFFICIALS

Prominent Clevelanders Called Before Grand Jury.

CLEVELAND.—(By Associated Press.)—Subpoenas were issued by County Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton shortly before noon today for Chief of Police Frank W. Smith, Franchise Commissioner John D. Marshall, City Councilmen Damm and Stachel and a member of the police force, demanding their appearance before the grand jury this afternoon in an investigation into all activities of the Ku Klux Klan in Cleveland and Cuyahoga-co.

"Councilman Damm and Stachel, who introduced resolutions in council last night requesting official inquiry into the operations of the organization will be asked to tell the grand jury what they know of its existence here," Stanton said. "Mr. Marshall is said to have been asked to join them and will be asked to testify. Chief Smith will be another witness. As head of the police force he must have some knowledge as to the workings of the 'invisible empire.' He is said to know the location of its Cleveland headquarters. I understand also that a sergeant of police has been made a member of the Cleveland branch of the Klan."

Stanton's action followed a request made upon him by city council last night in a resolution requesting a grand jury investigation of the Klan.

DEMOCRATS SPLIT ON TREATY

Ratification Favored by Most of Minority Senators.

WASHINGTON.—(By Associated Press.)—Democratic senators in conference today decided that the peace treaties with Germany, Austria and Hungary were not matters for party action. Individual Democrats, it was said, would be left to follow their own judgment in voting on ratification.

The Democrats were said to be widely divided, with a larger number favoring than opposing ratification. The conference which was attended by 27 of the 36 minority members did not conclude its sessions today and agreed to meet again Thursday when the question of reservations probably will be considered.

Senator Underwood of Alabama, majority leader, and Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, ranking Democrat on the foreign relations committee, were reported to have led the discussion today in favor of ratification with Senator Glass of Virginia, and Harrison of Mississippi, the leaders of the opponents.

The discussion of the leaders did not involve probable attitude on ratification of former President Wilson. Senator Hitchcock, referring to reports in circulation that Mr. Wilson had expressed himself as favoring ratification, said he knew nothing about it while Senator Harrison of Mississippi, a Democratic spokesman, denied the reports flatly.

MANDAMUS PROCEEDINGS BEGUN BY CONTRACTOR ON CLAIM FOR $17,000

Judge F. C. Decker allowed an alternative writ of mandamus late Monday afternoon to the John C. Tait company, upon petition, asking that C. R. Phillips, as county auditor, be forced to certify to the county commissioners the amount of money in his hands for the improvement of the city of Lima, for paving an improvement contract.

The petition says that after the commissioners left the contract to the Tait company for the improvement of the city of Lima, Phillips refused to certify to the commissioners the fact that funds for the construction were in his hands and not otherwise appropriated, although the county auditor was well aware such funds were sufficient. It is charged. The action has been presented procedurally with the work, the petition sets forth.

The cost of the improvement was $17,253.48. The Tait company consists of John C. Tait, Walter J. Neidhardt and M. O'Brien.

$1,500 DAMAGES ASKED AS AUTO CRASH RESULT

Damages in the sum of $1,500 are sought by Vanner Sandeen, an Allen-co resident, from David Reese, charging alleged negligence in driving, due to a collision of automobiles.

The accident happened between London and West Jefferson, near Columbus, in May, last.

Sandeen charges that Reese so improperly managed the automobile he was driving as to strike Sandeen's car, throwing him to the pavement. He suffered bruises on the body and torn clothing, for which he seeks damages.

TWO SUITS DISMISSED FOR LACK OF EVIDENCE

Two suits were dismissed in Justice W. H. Givins' court Tuesday last in want of prosecution.

The affidavit which Leo Dunning filed against Harry J. Glass, Fairview-ave., in July, charging he gave a worthless check for $30 for house rent, was not prosecuted and was dismissed.

The case against W. H. Bailey, who was charged by C. H. Dike with trading a mortgaged automobile to him, declaring it was free from encumbrance, was dismissed.

TO BORROW MONEY FOR CHURCH IMPROVEMENT

Bethany Lutheran church, Spring and McDonnell-sts., has petitioned common pleas court for permission to borrow $1,000 for improvement purposes and for making repairs of the church and 427, upon which the church is located.

The notes are to mature in eight years and bear six per cent interest.

Richard Answers First Installment of Questions

RICHARD
"THE WIZARD"

Since the first announcement was made that Richard, "The Wizard," would answer questions thru the columns of The News for the people of Lima and vicinity, letters have been pouring in every day for the great mystic to answer, and he has been publishing the first installment. Richards also opened his engagement Monday at the Orpheum theater with a special matinee Friday for ladies only. This is an unusual opportunity for the people of Lima and vicinity and its environs to have their questions answered thru The News, as Richards is acknowledged as America's leading magician and mind-reader, and brings a big production here, carrying a special baggage carload of scenery and amazing effects, a big company and a special orchestra, and there are but two places you can ask questions of Richards, either thru the columns of this paper or during the mental portion of the big performance. If you have any troubles, worries or cares, lost anything, in doubt about marriage, love or business affairs, just send in your question to "Richard, The Wizard," care of The News. Be sure to sign your full name and address, but only your initials will be used in the published answers, and no one but Richards will see your question. If you have not already sent in your question, do it now, as all questions are answered in the order they reach the office of The News. Following is the first installment of questions and answers:

IS WIFE TRUE?
A. J. I.—Tell me where I met my wife and what her name was. Is she true to me and will I be successful in life?
Answer—I make it a rule never to answer questions, but feel that should make an exception of your case, for the very reason that your lack of success in life has been due to your being obsessed with the idea that you know it all, that modern science is a fake, and that there is nothing more for you to learn. You would succeed in your present position if you would get over the idea that you are the master of the universe. You would succeed if you were working for him and your lack of success proves the reverse. Your wife's maiden name was Marie Wells and you met her in Astoria, Ore. She has been very true and faithful. She and her people are much disappointed in you, but this can easily be overcome if you will throw off your egotism and heed my advice. I want to help you, as I try to help all.

A. D.—How soon will I marry?
Answer—Not until next year, and it will be a fairly successful marriage. I see one child in 1921.

D. R.—Must I build ten more rooms on my house this spring?
Answer—No, but if you go ahead with your plans as they are, you will mean better financial returns for you next year.

E. S.—My husband has been gone some time. I love him.
Answer—Your husband is going to be anxious to see his children and you will hear from him in the near future. He is out of work at the present time.

C. O. H.—Who stole my watch?
Look in his pocket.

W. W. R.—Will the business I am about to start be a success?
Answer—It will not meet your expectations at the start, but I see you doing well next year.

M. J. K.—I am going to California; will I succeed there?
Answer—Yes, I see that you will get a good position shortly after you arrive and you will remain out there indefinitely.

E. R.—What is the matter with my father's stomach?
Answer—I advise him to see a reliable stomach specialist at once as his trouble is caused by improper secretion of the digestive fluids from the stomach glands. He can be cured, but it will require a little time.

M. R. S.—My husband never takes any place any more and goes out nights. Is there anything wrong with him?
Answer—A proper marital understanding with your husband will greatly relieve this condition. Also there is another factor involved in this. He still cares for you, but is simply indifferent and needs to be brought to his senses.

E. R. C.—Can you please tell me what the value of property is?
Answer—You will find the deed on the top shelf of the old watch-dog in the house of your father. The watch-dog is the one in the large side room upstairs in your home.

These are all the questions Richards could answer today, but more will appear each day this week. If you really are not here take your question to the Orpheum Theatre where Richards will doubtless answer you during the mental portion of the big performance.

SAFE IS CRACKED

Yeggs Carry Strong Box Away From Cigar Store.

Yeggs broke into the cigar store of W. A. Biddinger, Second-st. and St. Johns-ave. Monday night, carried an iron safe away and obtained $150 for their efforts, police were told Tuesday.

The crooks are believed to have driven to the place with a truck. The front door of the tobacco shop was forced open with burglar tools.

A small iron safe in the rear of the store was carried out and loaded into a waiting car. The car, residents of the vicinity state, left at break-neck speed. The empty safe, the door blown off with explosives, was found on the Shapell farm, two miles east of the city, Tuesday.

WATER EXTENSION PLAN IS FINANCED

The sinking fund board voted Tuesday to purchase $7,000 additional bonds voted to finance water main extension. Auditor David L. Ruppert announced.

Previously the board bought $3,000 worth, making $10,000 purchased from a total of $20,000 issued.

The bonds were issued to pay for laying water mains in a number of streets not served. At one time the service department proposed to sell them to the interested property owners, it is stated, but this was not accomplished.

STAUFFER ACCEPTS U. S. MARSHAL POST

OTTAWA.—(Special).—George A. Stauffer, Ottawa, appointed United States district marshal last week, has accepted the place. Present headquarters of the district marshal are in Cleveland, but Stauffer will probably reside in Toledo.

He is busy working on appointment of his deputies in Cleveland and Youngstown. He will serve three cities where United States courts in the Northern Ohio district, are located.

AMBULANCE REMOVALS

WILLIAMS AND DAY Mrs. Harry Eshman, City hospital to 320 S. Jackson-st. Olive Pearson, 14, Children's home to City hospital.

WOMAN'S MUSIC CLUB YEAR BOOK AT HARMAN'S STORE, WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, SEPT. 28TH.

Rev. Kyle Booth, pastor of the First Congregational church, has gone to Massillon, where he will attend the sessions of the northeast Ohio conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. The Rev. Booth was formerly a member of the conference, when he served as pastor of the Methodist church at Youngstown. The conference is one of the largest in Methodism.

PAGE RESIGNS

PROPOSED CANAL GETS SETBACK

Engineers Board Refuses to Approve Ohio Project.

WASHINGTON.—(By United Press.)—Because of the tremendous cost involved, the board of rivers and harbors engineers of the war department today refused to approve the proposed Great Lakes to the Ohio river canal in Ohio and Pennsylvania. The board, after an exhaustive examination, concluded that the Pittsburgh and Ashtabula Ohio route was the most feasible, but the cost of this was too great to insure its undertaking by the government.

Army engineers examined the proposed Miami and Erie Canal in Ohio, including a branch canal connecting with Lake Michigan. A channel twelve feet with suitable widths was proposed. In addition a special board of engineers examined these routes: Pittsburgh to Ashtabula, Marietta, to Cleveland, Portsmouth to Sandusky and Cincinnati to Toledo, including a branch connection with Lake Michigan.

The special board found that the Pittsburgh to Ashtabula route was the shortest and the cheapest of construction. It also offered the prospect of most navigation.

The report of the special board was referred to the board of rivers and harbors engineers which today declared "it is not convinced of the advisability of the United States undertaking the construction of an canal between Lake Erie and the Ohio river."

G. A. R. MEETS AT INDIANAPOLIS

9,000 Taken By Death Since Last Encampment.

INDIANAPOLIS.—Members of the Grand Army of the Republic, realizing that the organization is growing old, are planning that during the fifty-fifth annual encampment now being held here arrangements shall be made for final disposition of the property of the order.

Frank M. Starrett of Troy, Ohio, is said to have ready for presentation at one of the business sessions, probably today, a resolution which would provide for what he terms the "last will and testament of the G. A. R." Provision would be made for final disposition of all the property of the Grand Army when the last members are gone.

The veterans spent much time today getting in trim for the annual parade which is to be held tomorrow. Little groups from different posts held impromptu parades today marching behind the life and drum corps which many years ago played them on their way to war.

MRS. LAWS CREMATED
NEW YORK.—The remains of Mrs. Grace Laws, who killed herself after shooting Miss Mildred Hagan with fatal results, were sent to San Francisco today after cremation here as she directed in letters. The ashes were forwarded in a hand carved marble urn. Friends of the family here made the arrangements.

ALLEN-CO SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION TO BE HELD HERE, THURSDAY-FRIDAY

The annual convention and institute of the Allen-co Sunday school association will be held in the First Baptist church Thursday and Friday.

John T. Cotner, clerk of courts of Allen-co, is president of the association. Irvin C. Brentlinger, Lima, is secretary.

Conferences on various departmental work will follow each session, except Friday morning. L. B. Edgar, representing the adult division of the Ohio Sunday school association, will have charge of adult division work.

Miss Ada Rose Demerest, children's division superintendent of the Ohio State association, will be in charge of children's division work each day. E. L. Moonbridge, young people's specialist, will be in charge of young people's work and F. C. Kattner, director of the Lima office of the Ohio Sunday school association, will have charge of the work vital to superintendents and other officers of the local church schools.

Dr. W. G. Clippinger, Westerville, president of Otterbein college and of the Ohio Sunday school association, will deliver the address at the closing session, Friday night. Prof. G. A. Lehman of Bluffton college, will be in charge of music at the convention.

CUT NEXT YEAR'S COTTON CROP

That Is Purpose of Conference of Southern Farmers.

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(By N. E. A. Service.)—A conference of all southern farmers, bankers and merchants will be held here on October 17.

The conference has been called by J. P. Norfleet, chairman of the Cotton Acreage Reduction Committee, of the south.

It is being held for the purpose of following up the campaign started last winter for crop diversification and reduction of cotton acreage.

At that time a conference was held here of farmers, bankers and merchants of the cotton growing states. They agreed at that time to unite their efforts for a smaller cotton acreage and more feed and food crops.

Judging from the small cotton crop and the largest feed crop in history they lived up to their agreement.

High prices for cotton, caused by the short crop this year, it is feared, will cause many farmers to plant a heavy acreage of that staple next year, unless the committee follows up its advantage it has gained by waging a systematic campaign for diversification this winter and next spring.

Every cotton growing state will be represented at the conference by large delegations of bankers, merchants and farmers.

MANY WITNESSES

Grand Jury Works Fast—May Report Friday.

The Allen-co grand jury worked fast Tuesday and before night and the closing sessions come, it is likely more than 50 witnesses will have testified.

Fifty-one witnesses were called up to Tuesday noon. This sets a record for the number which testified. Thirteen have been called to testify Wednesday and more will be added to that list. Twenty-two were called Monday.

A report will not be expected before Friday. Prosecuting Attorney Lippincott says.

When Glasses Became a Fashion

Charles II. of England, accidentally looking through a small lens, discovered that it aided his vision. Thereupon, he engaged a French artisan, who ground six thousand lenses before he found two that gave his royal patron clear vision. And glasses, for the first time, became a vogue in the English-speaking world.

Today, the trained optical specialist seldom grinds more than one set of lenses to obtain a perfect fit. For the try-and-fit method of former times he substitutes the known principles of optical science. In this way he is able to assure eye comfort as well as clearer vision.

Fashion still plays its part—not in the sense of imitating princes, but in selecting those styles of eyeglasses that are appropriate and that fit becomingly the features of the wearer.

Technical precision in the prescribing and grinding of lenses, and mountings that proclaim good taste, are two elements that are emphasized in the service we offer our patrons.

strict governor of the Wisconsin-Superior Michigan district, is to deliver a 15-minute address. Stunts are to be pulled off by the Newark and Sandusky clubs. Following this, dancing is to start.

ELECT OFFICERS WEDNESDAY

Wednesday at the morning session, officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

At this session Rev. J. Allen Canby, pastor of the Central Church of Christ, will deliver the invocation, followed by a 15-minute talk by Fred C. W. Parker, of Chicago, secretary of the Kiwanis International. The committees on credentials and by-laws are to report.

Wednesday noon another luncheon-meeting is to be held in the Elks' banquet hall, with Harry E. Karr, of Baltimore, Md., as the principal speaker. Karr will arrive in Lima late Tuesday afternoon.

He was elected president at the international convention last spring in Cleveland.

Springfield, Sidney and Cincinnati clubs are slated for stunts.

The delegates will then adjourn to the Elks' lodge room where the last session of the convention will be held. Reports of the auditing and budget committees will be made, and a resolutions committee will submit their articles.

Last, but not least, at 3 o'clock the next convention city will be selected.

KIWANIS CONVENTION SIDELIGHTS

Mayor G. E. Address, of Marion, was seen around the lobby of the Argonne Hotel Tuesday.

W. W. Durbin, chairman of the state Democratic committee, came over Tuesday morning from his home in Keaton. During the morning he spent his time with "Richards, the Wizard" at the Orpheum.

Jim Morton, Lima, bought a new hat for the convention and all he lacked was a fashionable cane and a bull pup.

The Cleveland delegation wanted Lima to know they arrived at noon. As soon as they alighted from their train at the Pennsylvania depot, their band struck up a noisy tune and did not stop until they had covered the business streets.

Austin Potter looked like he was attending a firemen's convention, with all the badges on his coat.

At the governor's dinner and dance Tuesday evening registered Kiwanians and their guests will be the guests of the Lima club.

A crowd of delegates walking up N. Main-st. Tuesday morning were looking at the sky. "Wonder if the sun ever shines here," said one. Another piped up, "Yep, but they got so many factories here I suppose a smoke cloud hides its rays."

BIG SHIPMENTS FROM LIMA, FIGURES SHOW

From 6 a. m. Monday until the same time Tuesday, exactly 286,792 pounds, or 143,396 tons, of express baggage and mail was sent out of Lima for various points.

Two thousand, one hundred and forty-nine separate express shipments were sent out, weighing a total of 153,975 pounds; 388 pieces of baggage, weighing 29,374 pounds, and 3,410 sacks of mail, weighing 104,143 pounds.

This survey was conducted at all railroad and interurban stations in Lima by G. S. Wislady, newly appointed agent of the American Railway Express company here, succeeding F. T. Priest, deceased.

NEWSMAN MYSTIFIED BY "WIZARD" RICHARDS

Sits In an Atmosphere of Mystery as Funny Little Machine Grinds Out Answers to Queries Propounded by the Curious

Life Experience of Peculiarly Endowed Visitor Appearing at Orpheum Theatre Reads Like Arabian Night Dream

(By WILLIAM L. BARLOW)

A miniature funny looking machine of some sort, which must be possessed of some mystical power, is used to answer questions written to "Richards, The Wizard," thru The Lima News. He is appearing at the Orpheum theatre.

Its magician owner says it is one of only six instruments of its kind in existence.

How does it work? Well, that's what I'd like to know. It is a puzzle, but seems to do the work.

Monday afternoon Richards was sitting at a table, with a pile of letters around him written by readers of The Lima News. He opened each one quietly, while the writer sat wide-eyed—a bit leary at the atmosphere. The room was occupied by several skeletons and queer looking instruments. It was spooky!

Richards sat quiet. He paid no attention to his curious visitor. As soon as he would open a letter, his mind seemed to wander.

The machine in front of him was the target for his stony eyes. Each letter was placed beside it, then Richards would fasten a thing that looked like a handcuff around his wrist. A pencil was in that hand.

Then the pencil was placed on a piece of paper and soon it moved and the questions were being answered.

"Funny," I said.

"Not a bit," said Richards. "Thomas Edison has a machine like it and he is working on one with the same principles to get in touch with the spirit world."

Several of the questions provoked a laugh from the stern magician, but he waded thru them all.

"Is it spiritualism?" I asked.

This tickled him. "No," he said, "it is purely psychometry. That is from psychology. Nothing super-human about it. It is just a profession, that's all."

"Finding missing relatives and lost articles is an art."

While in Kenton last week, Richards and his party were entertained by W. W. Durbin, state Democratic chairman.

When Richards was a little over a year old his parents went to Calcutta, India. His father was interested in a big railroad project up in the Himalayan mountains.

It was there that the seed of the mystic and occult was implanted in the boy's young brain, for he would run away from home and remain with the Hindu magicians and seers for hours at a time. Upon his return home he would perform and duplicate many of their most difficult feats of conjuring, much to the discomfort and concern of his parents.

At the age of six he was mysteriously kidnapped by a group of Mohammedan fanatics, who were claimed to possess weirdly superhuman powers. Fabulous rewards posted by his father were unheeded.

Then exactly two years from the day he was stolen away, young Richards was returned to his distracted parents as mysteriously as he had been taken away.

He would not divulge what happened during those two years.

From the day he returned he would tell of great happenings, tell his mother just who would call at the house the following day and perform many wonders of legerdemain that were almost inconceivable from anyone.

His parents lost no time in returning to America, where he was taken before the leading scientists, psychologists and physicians of the country, but his strange powers baffled all who met him. Later he was sent to school at Kalamazoo, Michigan. There he created such consternation among the teachers and pupils by causing apples, books and other things to mysteriously vanish and re-appear unexpectedly, that his parents had to provide a private tutor to complete his schooling.

The death of his father in 1910 caused him to lay aside his studies at the University of Michigan in the college of medicine, to go on the stage.

WOMAN PIONEER OF ROCKIES DIES

First of Fair Sex to Explore Colorado Hills

By MICHAEL F. DACEY

DENVER. — By International News Service) — Mrs. Clemency McIlroy, believed to have been the first white woman to explore the Colorado Rockies, is dead at her home in Avada, Col., near here at the age of eighty-six.

Mrs. McIlroy, who was one of the most picturesque characters that ever blazed the trail through the wilderness, endured many privations and hardships in the early days of the present Centennial State.

The quaint old lady, who for the last twenty years has been seen in the old-fashioned garden of her Avada home, smoking a large black cigar and carrying a heavy cane on her arm, was the subject for many a thrilling tale told by the pioneer folks of the village.

Lured by the promise of gold in the mountains, Mrs. McIlroy and her husband, equipped with ox teams, started the journey West from the Indiana home soon after their marriage in 1854. Traveling slowly and encountering innumerable dangers, they made long stops necessary, they reached Golden in May, 1859.

Five years of travel in prairie schooners and on horseback earned the sturdy feminine pioneer to enduring fame, and while other women remained in the village at Golden, while their husbands sought for the golden dust in the mountains, Mrs. McIlroy dissuaded the danger and joined her mate in the rugged hills, at that time peopled with Indians and wild beasts, in their search for the precious yellow metal.

A year of prospecting in the vicinity of Golden failed to bring riches to the McIlroys and they journeyed to Montana. Here they also met with disappointment and returned to Golden, where they purchased land and engaged in farming.

Having no children, the couple developed a love for books and according to local tradition, bothered very little with worldly affairs, verily burying themselves in their "arid home." About twenty years ago the couple moved into the village of Avada and for a decade were familiar known to every boy and girl in the village as "Uncle Mac" and "Auntie Mac." The pair were famed among the youth for their wonderful tales of animal and plant life, and the history of the State's infancy.

Mrs. McIlroy was born in French Lake, Orange-co, Indiana, and numbered among her ancestors many men and women distinguished in the history of the country, especially in the South. Since the death of her husband, ten years ago, she has led the life of a recluse, a pipe and cigar and the heavy cane being but two of her numerous eccentricities.

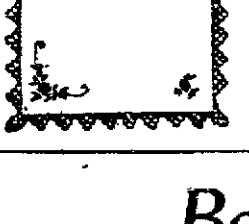

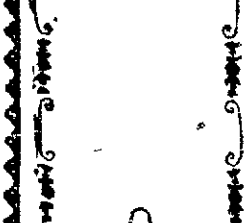

Mrs. McIlroy was buried in Crown Hill Cemetery, in Denver.

HO, THE STORM!

GRADE CROSSING TOLL HEAVIEST

Most Important Accident Question Confronting Rails.

B. & O. ADOPTS SAFETY PLAN

Railway Chief Tells of Warnings to Auto Drivers.

BOSTON — (By Associated Press) — Automobile accidents at grade crossings is the most important of all accident questions that confront the railroads of the country at the present time, C. W. Galloway, vice-president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad told the annual congress of the National Safety Council here today.

"It is now necessary for engineers to consider all construction from the standpoint of safe operation," Mr. Galloway said. "Even before the human element enters a plant, science has done its part to make conditions safe and sanitary. This came about, primarily, because of economic necessity."

"I have watched the progress of the safety work on the Baltimore and Ohio particularly, for many years and it is with no little pride that I point to some of the accomplishments for safety. In 1915 the casualties among employees totaled 8,679, in 1920 the casualties among employees totaled 6,941, or a decrease in casualties of 25 per cent. In 1915 the gross ton mileage was 32,237,710,000; in 1920 the gross ton mileage was 40,867,562,000, or an increase of 26 per cent. That means that in 1920, compared with 1915, the increase in train mileage, both freight and passenger was 13 per cent and at the same time our casualties decreased 28 per cent."

"With each passing year the increase in the number of automobiles and the growing carelessness of the drivers make it very important that we devote more extraordinary effort to lessen accidents at grade crossings. We are confronted with the fact that there are ten million motor vehicles now in use in the United States."

"It was with alarm that I noticed the reports of grade crossing accidents showing an increase month by month in 1919, and I determined to apply a remedy. I felt that if the drivers of cars could be reached intimately they would heed warnings. We started the campaign by placing observers at a few crossings where travel was heavy. When the observer noticed the driver of an automobile approaching the crossing and dash over it without taking any precautionary measures to assure himself that there was no train coming, the license number of the machine was placed on the card. These cards were forwarded to automobile commissioners according to the state which issued the licenses. The commissioners forwarded the cards to the owners of the machines."

"The cards, after reciting the facts of the observation, warned the drivers or owners of automobiles, that their lives and property had been risked unnecessarily, and that a repetition might bring disaster. In the great majority of cases, the recipient of the card realized that he had been careless and a great many even wrote their appreciation of our efforts to save them from injury."

"In 1921, our observers became even more active and in the first six months of this year, there were 248,988 observations made, and the failures reached only 8,775 or 3 1-2 per cent."

"Were I to ask the average railroad man what day in the week he believed the greater number of accidents happen he would say Sunday. One hundred thirty-eight accidents happened on the following days of the week: Sunday, 17; Monday, 23; Tuesday, 15; Wednesday, 27; Thursday, 17; Friday, 19 and Saturday, 20. It would seem to indicate that the automobile truck is more likely to accident at crossings than the pleasure car, for there are more of them in use on week-days than Sundays."

"Another surprising fact was that nearly all the accidents happen when the weather was clear. This seems to indicate that persons take more chances in clear weather than when it is raining or snowing."

"The question of automobile accidents at grade crossings is, I consider, the most important one the railroads have to deal with, and I cannot impress upon this body of safety men too strongly the necessity of inaugurating a vigorous educational campaign against accidents of this character, both for humane and economic reasons."

EMMA GOLDMAN COMING BACK

Anarchist Leader Says She Will Return to U. S.

(BY EDWIN HULLINGER)

MOSCOW — (United Press) — "I am going back to America—my country," Emma Goldman, anarchist leader, said today in an exclusive interview with the United Press.

"I have found less liberty in Russia than in the United States," she said. "Huddled over a typewriter, wrapped in shawls, in a fireless, cheerless, chilly little bedroom, up three flights from a dark, back street, I found the 'mother of American anarchism' at work collecting data on the Russian revolution."

WILL QUIT RUSSIA

"Why here in Russia, I am not even allowed to print anarchist literature. I'm going to quit the country in November and go to Berlin to attend the International Anarchist Congress. I may remain in Germany temporarily, but eventually, I'm returning to America."

"I've scrupulously avoided participating in anarchist activities since I've been here," Emma said, adding with a smile, "you know this government wouldn't stand for it."

VIEW EXCHANGED

"I will go back to educate the American people," she declared. "I must decline to discuss the present Bolshevik government, but I'll say this—my sojourn in Russia has in no way changed my views. It has strengthened my opposition to government of any kind."

"Yes, I still approve of violence in extreme cases, although not on general principles. It is foolish to fight a government like America with bombs."

LIGHT BILLS CLIMB AS DAYS GROW LONG

Because of decreasing daylight, bills of Lima consumers are destined to climb steadily. According to figures furnished by C. W. Randolph, of the Ohio Electric, the average consumer has need of light about two and a half hours a day during June. In December, the darkest month of the year, the lights must be kept burning almost 7 hours daily. In September lights are needed for four hours.

LEGION TO ELECT OFFICERS TODAY

TOLEDO — (By Associated Press) — Unfinished business, reports of committees, nomination and election of officers, selection of a site for next year's convention and adoption of resolutions was before the Ohio branch of the American Legion, in third annual convention here today.

The launching of a state-wide campaign to put over the adjusted compensation referendum to be voted on this fall is the most important matter before the convention. Action will also be taken supporting the national legion organization, in its fight to get a re-hearing in congress of the four-fold adjusted compensation measure that was recommended in the senate recently.

The problem of the disabled and unemployed war veterans in the state will also get consideration it is said. Delegations from the northern and southern part of the state are ranged against one another in a fight for endorsement for a regional government hospital. Cleveland and Cincinnati are both seeking the choice.

Northwestern Ohio delegates will make a fight to nominate a man between this part of state command. The choice apparently lies between the part of the state and the central district. John R. Priddy, member of the executive committee and Ralph D. Cole, both of Findlay, appear to be the northwestern Ohio favorite sons.

Lima Woman, Mrs. Herbert Shaffer, Dies at Wapak.

WAPAKONETA — (Special) — The board of education here is investigating a drinking spree by high school seniors at a party here Friday night. Five boys are accused of partaking of an alcoholic distilled brewed by one of them. They carried on the affair clandestinely without the knowledge of the faculty, who were present. The board will hold a special meeting to consider the affair. Two of the five have been given temporary suspensions.

Ray Miller, Neal Shaw and Jesse Whetstone are delegates from Auglaize Post, American Legion, to the state convention in Toledo.

Demurrer by the city seeking to set aside a petition by Fred Houtz, deposed night patrolman recently removed by Safety Director Adrian Seitz on grounds of incompetency, inefficiency, insubordination and discourteous treatment of the public was sustained by common pleas court. The civil service commission upheld removal of Houtz and latter filed an action, appealing from it.

Miss Ethel Shaffer, wife of Herbert Shaffer of Lima, died at the home of her mother, Mrs. Luzida Edgington, Saturday night from tuberculosis. Previous to being removed here she was confined in the Lima district tuberculosis hospital. She was 25 years old. She leaves her husband and one child, George, aged eight months.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sintz, 43, died Sunday, after a lingering illness with diabetes. She leaves her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Jacobs, and the following brothers: Alonzo, George and Richard Jacobs.

RODDY IS FINED FOR SLAPPING HIS WIFE

Charles Roddy, 28, colored, living on Water-st, employed by the Willite company, who claims Tennessee as the state of his nativity, ran amuck Saturday and cuffed up his wife Daisy, she told the police. "She called me some names, Jedge," Roddy explained in criminal court Tuesday, "so all slapped her." "That sort of thing don't go," Judge Jackson told him. It'll cost you $5.

HEAVIER HOSE AS AID TO OXFORDS FOR WINTER

WEAR SEEN BY DEALER

Oxfords for men the entire winter thru, is the story which shoe dealers who are up to the minute in exclusive footwear, are telling.

In the days of our grandfathers, with the first sign of Jack Frost, off with the low shoes and on with the high shoe, just for health's sake, was the order.

But now, the low shoe is considered the proper article of foot dress the winter long. Of course, they will supply the summer oxford, will have a heavy sole and be made of heavier material, but they will be the low shoe, just the same.

Many inquiries have already come to us about the low shoe and the swaggy young man does not include anything else in his wardrobe, either for formal wear or business, a N. Main-st dealer said. "High shoes are passe and spats will be worn but little heavier hose will characterize the new low shoe and the whole will give a fine look to man's footwear," the dealer said.

WIFE, IN DIVORCE SUIT, CLAIMS ABUSE

The divorce case of Rose Lawrence against Paul Lawrence was heard by Judge F. C. Becker, in common pleas court late Monday and taken under advisement.

Mrs. Lawrence told the court she was forced to take in washings to provide for herself and young son, George Edward, 14 months old. A hammer was his favorite implement used in striking her, she testified and she related to the court one instance when her husband dragged her down the steps of their home at 920 1-2 Reese-ave.

The couple were married in Lima in April, 1919, and have one child.

POISON BESIDE HER BED

News In Brief Picked Up From Ohio Cities.

COLUMBUS — (By Associated Press) — Police today are endeavoring to establish the identification of a young woman, about 23 years of age, who was found dead in a room of a local hotel here yesterday. Efforts so far have been unavailable.

Hotel officials profess to know nothing about the woman. Police believe that she was registered under, Gladys Cook, Springfield, is an assumed one. Word received from Springfield discloses no knowledge of the woman.

A small bottle of poison was found beside her bed. She wore expensive clothing, it being valued at more than $500. Police believe she came here with a pre-arranged intention of committing suicide.

SPECIAL ELECTION ON TODAY FOR CONGRESSMAN

BOSTON, Mass. — A special election was held in the sixth congressional district, comprising North Shore cities and towns, today to name a successor to Willard W. Lusk, Republican, resigned. The district is normally strongly Republican.

Democratic leaders based the campaign on the election afforded an opportunity for protest against the conduct of the national administration to date. The Republicans urged endorsement of President Harding and the Republican congress.

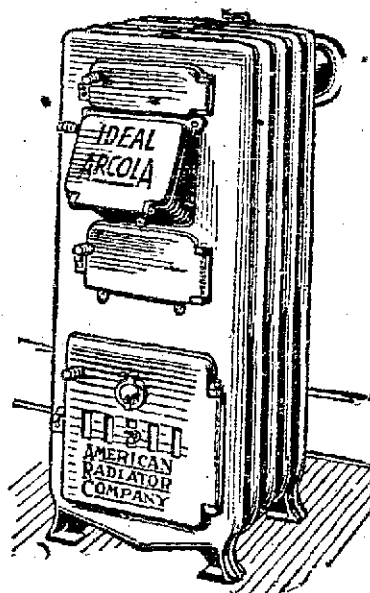

Interest in the campaign was increased by the speaking participation of Vice-President Coolidge in defense of the federal administration and of United States Senator David I. Walsh who criticized it.

The candidates are Colonel A. Platt — Andrew, Republican and Judge Charles Pettigell, Democrat.

PRIZE SETTER POISONED

WOWOSSO, Mich. — James Oliver Curwood, the author of animal stories, is mourning the loss of one of his prize English setters. He found the dog dead of poisoning yesterday. Curwood has offered a $1,000 reward for capture of the person responsible for the dog's death.

"But I would give $25,000 to have him back," he said.

A SCOUT FOR VIRGINIA

By HUGH PENDEXTER

The clearing would now be in the first twilight shadows and Black Hoof gave his final orders.

After a time we heard much shouting and the firing of many guns. This would be a mock attack. Suddenly the firing dropped away and all the yelling continued.

Every Indian left in the camp was now standing listening eagerly for the voice of the cannon. It came, a loud explosion that dwarfed all rifle fire. With screams of joy the savages began dancing.

Then the groans of pain and shouts of furious anger came to us. There was a noise of many feet hurrying back to the camp. Black Hoof came thru the bushes first. Then came Ward, staggering like a drunken man and clanking at his left shoulder.

Four broken forms of dead warriors were hurried into the little opening, followed by a dozen braves bearing wounds which would appal a town-dweller. The cannon had burst and scattered its charge of stones among the Shawnees.

Fires sprang up until the glade was well illumined. Black Hoof sent some of the younger men to scout the camp the camp might be surprised by a sally. To the warriors remaining, the Chief announced:

"We must march for Ohio. I will make a feast to my medicine and will tell you what it says shall be done with the prisoners."

"That man and that woman are my prisoners," hoarsely cried Ward. "Delivered you?" medicine was strong. Now that we know your medicine is weak and foolish they belong to all the Shawnees. Red Arrow has no prisoners until he goes and catches them."

"Those who would see one of the three die show the axe." Almost as soon as he had spoken the air was filled with spinning axes, ascending to the boughs and then falling to be deftly caught, each by its owner.

"It is good," said the chief. "My medicine shall pick the prisoners to die."

I called out to the chief: "Catahecassa, listen to a white medicine, for the red medicine is far away or else is asleep. If the white woman is harmed you will shed tears of blood before you reach your Ohio town. The settlers are swarming in to head you off. You have no time to spend in torturing any prisoners."

"But had you many sleeps of time it would be bad for you to harm the white girl. If you harm her you will have nothing to trade for an open path to the river. If you are wise in war, as your enemies say you are, you will guard her carefully at least until you make your villages above the Ohio."

The chief's eyes shined uneasily, but his voice was ominous.

"Bring that man over to the fire" he directed, pointing to me.

"My wrist-cords were loosed, my ankles were fastened only with a spangle, and strong hands jerked me to my feet. I advanced to where the girl lay with her head on her father's breast.

Black Hoof selected a charred stick from the fire and stood staring at us, his eyes blank as the dead did not see us. His spirit was far away up the mountains communing with his medicine. He was asking his mantle which of the three victims would be most acceptable.

Suddenly Black Hoof threw back his head and for a moment stared about him as if to collect his scattered senses.

Reaching down he pulled the girl from her father. She had swooned and was at least spared these few minutes of awful dread. The charred stick hovered over her white face, then was withdrawn and darted at mine.

Instinctively I closed my eyes, but as the stick failed to leave its mark I opened them and beheld Dale had been chosen! A black smooch extended from the tip of his nose to the roots of his hair, and was bisected by another mark across the bridge of his nose, and extending to his ears.

They pulled me away and fell to rubbing the unfortunate man's face and neck with charcoal. Cousin's sister with a magnificent show of strength gathered the unconscious girl in her arms and walked toward the woods. Ward would have stopped her, but she blazed like a snake in his face, and there was a hardness in the blue eyes he could not withstand.

Dale was stood on his feet and his upper garments were torn off from him. As they offered to lead him to the stake he struck their hands aside and with firm step walked inside the circle of brush which had been heaped up some five feet from the stake. With a spangle rope fastened to his ankle Dale was further secured by a long cord tied around one wrist and fastened some fifteen feet up the trimmed sapling.

When the flames began to bite on one side he could hobble around the post to the opposite side. As the flames spread he would become very active, but each revolution around the post would shorten the slack of the wrist-cord. With the entire circle of fuel ablaze he would slowly roast. Black Hoof muttered some gibberish and applied the torch.

As the first billow of smoke rose Ericus Dale threw back his head and loudly prayed:

"O God, protect my little girl! O God, have mercy upon me!"

Black Hoof jeered him, sardonically crying: "The white man makes medicine to his white manito. Let Big Turtle try him with a mouthful of fire."

A burly warrior scooped up coals on a piece of bark and leaped thru the smoke. Two rifle shots, so close together as to be almost one, shattered the tense silence as the savages held their breath to enjoy every symptom of the excruciating agony. Dale went down and Big Turtle leaped backward and fell stone dead. The scream of a panther awoke the Indians to furious activity. Black Hoof shouted for his men to catch the white scout and hurried into the forest.

The fire was stamped out and Dale's body removed to one side and covered with a blanket. Now lost sister returned leading Patricia.

She brought her charge to me. Patricia dropped beside me and stared wildly. Then she began to remember and said:

"My father is dead?"

"He is dead. He suffered none. It is as he wished. He could not escape. He is at peace."

"Life is so terrible," she mumbled. "Death is so peaceful. Death is so beautiful. Then one is so safe."

After a while she rose and walked to her father. Lost sister had removed the telltale black. The girl knelt and kissed him and patted his hair. The returning to me, she quietly said:

"The bullet that took his life was very kind. It must be very beautiful to be dead."

She ceased speaking and slowly began stretching her arms above her head with a long drawn scream she fell over backward and I knew she had lost her reason.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

By PHYLIS PHILLIPS

CHERRY'S DREAM HOUSE

The next few days fairly flew by. Cherry made hats of such irresistible beauty in her new mood that the corner of Hamlen's which she graced was full of customers from morn till night.

"Hats," said Nancy Hooper, one of the well dressed girls of the town. "These aren't just ordinary hats, my dear Mrs. Randall, they are fairy-like wonders that you are designing to offer us, that's what I think."

The dimples came and went in Cherry's cheeks at these words of appreciation. Nancy knew what she was talking about, for had she not bought hats in the Rue de la Paix and Bond street. Yes, her art had progressed without a doubt. If she had her own place of business now there would be enough money for the little house of dreams within six months, but then, things were going pretty well this way. She would have a tidy bank account to show Ned when he returned.

Each day after her work Cherry now found herself staring into the windows of the big furniture store of Wellsburg, dreamily. She was mentally selecting the sort of sitting room set her heart desired. A mahogany one, with a softly tinted old rose rug to go with it. Then there was a gorgeous floor lamp that she was sure would be the very one to throw the proper glow onto the rest of the furniture in that particular room. Wicker chairs and gay blue chintz for the bedroom and the brightest blue linoleum for the dream kitchen. Golden biscuit colored walls thruout the halls, to reflect and hold the sunshine that would surely dance upon them, and give the effect of sunlit autumn leaves, and blow stenciled curtains at the windows, worked by her own hands. What a home it was going to be.

And at night, after the day's work, she and Ned around the fireplace, a really truly fireplace, large and inviting and able to burn big logs that snapped and crackled. Even her hats were forgotten whenever she dwelt on this picture of domesticity.

There would be cozy little dinners given by young Mr. and Mrs. Randall, too. Dinners at which everyone felt comfortable. Nothing formal about them. No, indeed. There was not to be a formal note in the whole house and as few rules and regulations as possible. Cherry had long since learned her husband's dislike of them.

She rather wished that she could annex dear Aunt Phoebe, for then the picture would be complete, but that was out of the question, unless—unless—Phoebe fired herself! That she could not help. Especially if as Phoebe had assured her time and again, she fired herself, went down home for a rest, and then returned to work for young Mrs. Randall. The very thought had caused Cherry to alternately shudder with fear and tremble with delight.

In her lightness of heart she began to accept more and more invitations, here and there, in her new home. She was filled with a desire to get acquainted with these, her husband's people. She wanted to be all that he wished her to be. And one by one the hearts were thrown open to her in the homes of the Wellsburg citizens.

Do you know that by far the larger number of the common ailments of women are not surgical ones; that is they are not caused by any serious displacement, tumor, growth, or other marked change?

Do you know that these common ailments produce symptoms that are very much like those caused by the more serious surgical conditions?

Do you know that many women and young girls suffer needlessly from such ailments? More than that, they endanger their health by allowing their ailments to continue and develop into something serious.

If treated early, that is, within a reasonable time after the first warning symptoms appear, serious conditions may often be averted. Therefore, at the first appearance of such symptoms as periodic pains, irregularities, irritability and nervousness, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken.
It is prepared with accuracy and cleanliness from medicinal plants. It contains no narcotics nor poisonous drugs, and can be taken with perfect safety.

The Vegetable Compound acts on the conditions which bring about these symptoms in a gentle and efficient manner. The persistent use of it shows itself in the disappearance, one after another, of the disagreeable symptoms.
In a word, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound acts as a natural restorative, relieving the present distress and preventing more serious trouble.

HE AND SHE

WHY do short women prefer to marry tall men? This question is debated solemnly and in long scientific words at the second international congress of eugenics, meeting in New York.

The answer is: Because nature is constantly trying to even things up—maintain an average or normal balance.

With those of gentle disposition, they pair off like this: Little women with big men, brunets with blonds, hot tempered people with those of gentle disposition.

Usually we are not conscious of our shortcomings until we see them in some one else.

Our subconscious minds, however, are not as easily fooled as our conscious minds. The subconscious recognizes faults, admits them and admires those who lack the faults.

And what if you haven't any faults? Then you unconsciously are drawn, like iron to the magnet, to those who have.

Tame men love to read about Jesse James and Napoleon.

Women who toe the mark strictly in life are thrilled by the vampires and villains of the movies.

IF WE were all alike, this would be a dull and monotonous world. Like living with a thousand reflections of yourself in a mystic maze of mirrors.

Conversation that is interesting and association that causes the glow of good-fellowship are made possible only because no two people are identically alike. We meet and unconsciously compare ourselves with others as we mingle and talk.

So a dull civilization of bricks, paint, steel and tin cans is made interesting by our shrewd boss, Mother Nature.

IF TALL men married tall women and fat men married fat women, as a pronounced human tendency, the world would soon become peopled with giants and monstrosities.

If good dispositions married only good dispositions, and vile tempers married only vile tempers, the earth soon would have two distinct types—saints and devils. They'd soon war.

Nature, desiring to keep a certain balance, to preserve a certain normal level, makes us attracted to our opposites, particularly in that oldest human institution, marriage.

Men, who think slower than women, have to ponder this and reason it out by the process called psychological analysis.

Women, with lightning brains, brains that work so rapidly their processes can't be followed and analyzed, know it by instinct, which is possibly nothing more than subconscious lightning thought.

Haven't you heard an old granny comment: "Oh, they'll be so happy! Such a well-matched couple! He so dark, she so fair!"

BONUS

MEMBERS of Paul Gallagher Post of the American Legion, Lima, and ex-service men all over the state, are preparing to do battle in behalf of an amendment to be voted on in Ohio in November for issuance of $25,000,000 in bonds, to pay former soldiers of the world war in three branches of the national defense the sum of $10 for each month served.

The state convention at Toledo is giving impetus to the move and Legion posts everywhere in the state have taken up the cudgel in behalf of the development of sentiment.

Similar amendments have been adopted in other states.

DRIFTING

ONE is frequently impelled to put to himself to the query: "Whither are we drifting?" when contemplating undeniable facts in connection with the tendencies of the young in these days.

During the last fiscal year there was an average of more than two commitments every day to the boys' industrial school at Lancaster, according to the report of that institution filed with the supervisor of the welfare department.

The exact number of commitments during the year was 752, of which 64 per cent were American born, 28 per cent of foreign parentage and eight per cent of foreign birth. The fact is brought out that environment is directly responsible for more boys being sent to the institution than anything else. For the most part they are the children of parents who have separated.

Every county in the state save seven has boys in the institution. More boys are taken for stealing than any other crime.

QUESTION

WHETHER it really aids in preventing juvenile delinquency to suppress the names of offenders when they are first haled into court, is a question.

It is the policy of the courts of Allen-co and those most everywhere, to take such a course. A study of the situation reveals the fact that boys and girls, impelled to criminal tendencies, appear to be callous to influences for good, feeling that publicity, the thing they most fear, will not be given when they are eventually caught.

From Suva, Fiji, comes the statement that police are protesting against the law forbidding publication of names of first offenders. This is largely the cause of an increase in crime, they say. Perhaps, after all, we will learn things from Fiji.

AUTUMN

IT is here—that mystic season of fickle temperatures, its haze and its glory in a riot of colors on the landscape, as the sear and yellow succeeds the green and gold of a wonderful summer.

Officially, autumn is here. Its coming was forecasted plentifully in conditions and manifestations. According to the calendar, fall began Friday, September 23.

According to popular belief, the arrival of autumn is marked by unusual storms, the result of the sun entering one of the two equinoctial points, when the days and nights become of equal duration.

We have passed the point of equality and are now on the down grade toward shorter days and longer nights. Despite its increasing sombre hues, fall is a glorious season, a final invitation to enjoy the glories of the great out-of-doors, before the shut-in period comes.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH US, ANYWAY?

Otto H. Kahn, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., New York Bankers, Gives The News His Opinion

WHY is it that after many months of war liquidation and readjustment, we are still in the throes of poor trade, tight money, restricted enterprise and employment and general discomfiture?

There are a number of reasons: A war of unprecedented scope and costliness, accompanied by corresponding inflation of currency and production. A peace equally unprecedented in its ill effects and in the deplorable discrepancy between professed aims and actual performance. Governmental incapacity, neglect and blundering. Excessive expansion, overtrading and lack of foresight on the part of a considerable portion of the business community. Exorbitant boosting of the cost of labor and stubborn insistence, in some instances, upon conditions not normally tolerable. Governmental and private extravagance. Tax system of 1917. But there is one element which, more than any other single cause, has stood and still stands in the way of our economic recovery. That is the improvident, disingenuous and mischievous system of taxation adopted in 1917.

Leaving aside its appalling complexity, its arbitrary and obnoxious cumbersome, the unfairness of its incidence, and its manifold actual and moral impediments to effort and enterprise, it has produced two effects of fundamental destructiveness. It has prevented the accumulation of new capital, and it has violently interfered with the normal flow of existing capital.

Capital has been driven from the highways of trade because the government, like a wait and exacts a huge toll going up to three-quarters of the wayfarer's income, blithely unmindful, too, of the fact that there is another way called "tax-exempt securities" which is not only safer, smoother and less laborious to travel, but is entirely free from toll. For this throttling of the supply of capital for construction uses we have chosen the very time when we were most in need of an ample supply of funds, because European capital on which we had largely drawn before the war, is no longer available to us owing to the effects of the war—indeed, Europe, instead of being a provider of capital, has become an eager borrower here—and because the process of readjusting our industries to peace conditions and bringing our productive capacity in line with post-bellum requirements and opportunities, involves a very heavy capital drain.

Adversity and hardships have come upon the farmer, as they have come upon the factory, and he has come or cannot fail to come, in a greater or less degree, upon every element in the community in the painful economic process thru which the country is passing. The farmer is gravely discontented, and under a sense of grievance with the existing order of things. His just grievances call for immediate, intelligent consideration and for effective redress. If that redress can only be made effective by methods which are new and somewhat unpalatable to the established ways of business, then the less important will have to yield to the most important, i. e. business convenience and customs to the true welfare of the farming industry.

LABOR. It hardly needs affirmation that in the difficult process of adjusting our affairs from an artificial and highly inflated basis to a true and normal one, labor cannot be left unscathed.

On the whole, the workers, unionized or otherwise, have come to recognize that fact. We are all beneficiaries of one another's prosperity, and it hardly needs arguing to prove that it is in the best interest of the employer, even from the merely selfish point of view, not to pay the lowest wages to which labor can be squeezed down, but rather the highest wages compatible with the successful conduct of his business and with keeping his product at reasonable cost. By the same token, it is in the interest of the worker to be an efficient producer and not to slacken on the job. (Extract from speech before Traffic Club of Pittsburgh).

HEALTH TALKS

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well
OVERTHEATING

Nobody loves a fat man. Why should anyone love him? In 9 cases out of 10, the fat man is careless in eating, careless in working and generally careless in all his habits that pertain to good health.

Except in cases of actual disease, where overweight is due to dropsy, heart disease, kidney trouble or diseases of the ductless glands—thyroid and pituitary—fatness is due to a lack of balance between the intake of food and the expenditure of energy.

The usual gain in weight with advancing years is not an advantage. It's a handicap and a sign of waning physical powers. One should endeavor to keep his weight at approximately the average for the age of 30, which is the period of full maturity.

Insurance companies find fat men to be poor risks. They are unhealthy. Throwing too much fuel into the human engine and taking too little exercise is quite as dangerous as an epidemic.

One should avoid all so-called cures and drug methods for reduction unless prescribed by a physician. Massage is useless but diet and exercise are reliable. Fat people have less bodily surface in proportion to their weight than thin people, also fewer active cells.

For this reason they should have less fuel or energy foods, which are sugars and starches. By cutting down this class of food and increasing the exercise, a balance can be maintained. Habits should be formed that will automatically keep the weight down.

Foods to be avoided by the fat man are: milk as a beverage, sugars, fats, potatoes, salmon, lobster, crabs, sardines, herring, mackerel, pork and goose, nuts, butter, cream, olive oil, fat meats and water at olive oil, fat meats and water at meals. Meals would rather and infrequent, a little fruit on rising and a glass of hot water.

For dinner or lunch a choice may be had of chicken, lean meat, fish not cooked in fat, in moderate portions.

Bulky vegetables of low food value may be selected, such as celery, spinach, lettuce, string beans, cucumbers, carrots, tomatoes, cabbage, Brussels sprouts, turnips, etc.

Diet is of more benefit than exercise, but exercise should not be left out. Simple setting-up exercises that bring most of the muscles of the body into play are recommended.

Monotonous exercises are the best because they are less likely to work up a hearty appetite, but they are the hardest to keep up systematically and faithfully.

KIWAN IS LADIES GUESTS

WIVES of Kiwanians from Cincinnati, Sandusky, Fremont, Ravenna and Medina came to this city during the day Monday and were received at the Hotel Argonne by the local women's committee of the Kiwanis convention, which is being held in this city at the present time. Forty other women, wives of Lima Kiwanians, assisted in extending hospitality to the visiting women in the forenoon and afternoon. A large group from other cities throughout Ohio arrived in Lima Tuesday morning.

The women's committee in charge of the convention included: Mrs. Kent W. Hughes, chairman; Mrs. Gibson Dilline, Mrs. Austin Potter, Mrs. Clayton Paine, Mrs. Howard Fletcher, Mrs. Otis Lippincott, Mrs. C. A. Siferd and Mrs. Francis Durbin.

In the evening all the wives of the Lima Kiwanians gathered at the Hotel Argonne for an informal reception, honoring the out-of-town guests. At 7:45 o'clock theatre parties were formed.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Skillman and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Skillman and son, Carl, of Lockwood, O., were the guests of C. A. Weaver and family, of S. Elizabeth-st. for several days, enroute to Detroit, Mich. and other northern parts of Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Stechschulte, of Leipsic are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Connolly, of N. Collett-st.

Allen Reutz and Mrs. Edna Goetz of Winton Place, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fite, 498 W. Grand-ave.

James Kelly, of Eldorado, Kan. is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Vincent Connolly and family, of N. Collett-st.

Mrs. Kyle Booth, of W. North-st. will go to Gomer, Wednesday, where she will give an address before the Women's societies of the Gomer and Leatherwood Congregational churches at the Congregational church in Gomer.

Mrs. Dilline and daughter, Miss Helen, of Toledo, motored to this city Saturday to visit Mrs. Dilline's son, Gibson, P., Dilline and family, of W. High-st. Miss Dilline returned to her home Monday. Mrs. Dilline will remain here until Saturday.

Mrs. Irene Mills Jackson, of W. High-st., will return to this city Tuesday evening from Elvira, where she was called by the serious illness of her daughter, Miss Mildred, a student at the Berea Conservatory.

Elizabeth Circle of the Market-st. Presbyterian church will enjoy a dinner to be served at the church Thursday at 6 p. m. Several women of the missionary society will be in charge.

Mrs. Albert Bernstein leaves Wednesday to join her husband in Pottsville, Pa. Before her marriage Mrs. Bernstein was Miss Magdalena Schultze, who came to Lima from Toledo several years ago in connection with the completion of work at the Lima Locomotive works. Mrs. Bernstein has displayed her unusual executive ability and expert compositing operating during her stay in this city. She was an instructor in this work in the Lima night school. Mr. and Mrs. Bernstein will be missed by a large circle of friends.

Ladies' Aid society of the First Baptist church will hold its first meeting of the year in the church parlors at 2:30 p. m. A good attendance is requested.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Connor and daughter, Miss Helen, of N. Washington-st. are enjoying a stay in San Francisco. They will conclude their extensive summer vacation trip at Los Angeles, Pasadena and Long Beach, Ca.

A merry group of children gathered at the home of Mary Elizabeth Utheil, of N. Park-ave, Saturday and tendered her a pleasant surprise in celebration of her seventh birthday anniversary. Contests, games and music were enjoyed through the afternoon and at 4 o'clock a dainty luncheon was served by Mrs. Utheil. Many pretty gifts were received by little Mary Elizabeth. Those present included: Helene Schuler, Virginia Barker, Anna Belle Hill, Hazel Winks, Helen and Katherine Swaney, Betty Jean Smith, Vera McMillen, Lavenia Wilson, Neva Wagner, Margaret Stimmel, Donald Koch, James Schuler, Richard Barker, Billy Bowers and Donald Hummer.

Mary Martha class of the First Reformed church will hold its first meeting of the new year at the home of Misses Bertha and Hattie Fraile of 631 N. Elizabeth-st., Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Emil Levy, of S. Charles-st., was hostess to the members of the Monday afternoon Bridge club and a group of substitutes at her home Monday. Bridge was enjoyed throughout the afternoon. Mrs. Harry Goldberry holding high score among the members and Miss Gail Parmenter among the guests. Mrs. Chester Ridgeway was consoled. At the conclusion of play a daintily appointed luncheon was served.

Next meeting will be held in a fortnight with Mrs. Clarence Klinger, of N. West-st. road.

Members of the Jitsu Tan club were received by Miss Helen King at her home, Monday. Bridge was the pastime of the evening. Miss Helen Bower holding high score among the members. At the conclusion of the playing the hostess served a dainty lunch.

Next meeting of the club will be held in two weeks with Mrs. Harry Goldberry, of S. Charles-st.

Honoring Miss Helen O'Connor, a bride-elect of October, Mrs. Francis P. O'Connor, of Erie ave. is entertaining with a luncheon-bridge at her home Saturday.

Dress for All Occasions

MRS. OLLRICH'S, BUSINESS AND SOCIAL WOMAN, IN HER SUIT

NEWPORT, R. I. (By N. E. A. Service) — A Newport society woman has solved the dress problem for the modern woman of affairs.

Mrs. Charles de L. Ollrichs, a member of "the exclusive inner circle," has recently opened an importing shop near the Casino.

Her double role of society and business woman depends that she be dressed for every contingency, but allows her no time for frequent change. She found that the problem of being dressed for her hours in the trading company and being equally ready for luncheons at the Hippopotamus.

So she had the Wooltex designers make her a costume which she is now using for all occasions, except evening attire. She will wear costumes following the design in her New York shop on East 47th street this fall.

On the street or for motoring it is a tailored suit. Indoors, with the coat off, it is a sleeveless dress worn with a silk blouse.

"I am a believer in discriminating simple dress," says Mrs. Ollrichs. "I feel that the fascinations of business are rivaling the fascinations of clothes, and that the woman-who-do-things simply can't be annoyed with the futile whims of fashion."

OPEN SALES CLASSES FOR CLERKS WEDNESDAY

Sales classes for clerks employed in Lima stores will hold their initial sessions at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium Wednesday. Two classes will be held, Miss Elizabeth Riddle, instructor, announces. The first at 8:30 a. m. and the second at 9:15 a. m.

The classes will be held three days each week. Two classes have been arranged for each day, so that the instruction may be more thorough and store owners can send their clerks to the school, without having too many absent at one time.

Miss Riddle, who is instructor in similar work at Central high, will devote the initial sessions to an explanation of the work.

APPLICATIONS COMING FOR CITY AUDITOR JOB

Applications for the job of city auditor are beginning to come in. Mayor F. A. Burkhardt said Tuesday. According to his statement, there are already some five or six persons who are anxious to secure the appointment for three months. "I would not care to say who they are at this time," the Mayor said. "I want to select the man who can take the position easiest, on account of the short time."

Mayor Burkhardt reiterated that he is not in a hurry to make the appointment. He expects, however, to make a selection before October 1.

Auditor Rupert is closing up affairs in his office, with the view of being ready to walk out the minute his successor is chosen. He is more than anxious, he stated, to see his new duties.

RESURFACING WORK BEGUN ON S. MAIN-ST

Work started Tuesday on the resurfacing of S. Main-st., from the Market house to Kibby-st., Vaughn Miller city engineer stated.

The street will be resurfaced with a carpet coat of bituminous macadam applied on top of the present brick paving. Similar repair work has been done on W. Market-st. and to some extent on N. Main.

The catfish crew will endeavour dogs but will not touch the flesh of a cat.

LETTERS TO LOVERS

By WINONA WILCOX

HISTLEDOWN will show the way a temper blows. A zingy sentence indicates the trend of most domestic disturbances. "It's a lack of right-mindedness," writes A HAPPY WIFE.

And doesn't that cover the causes of divorce as completely as volumes could do?

"My husband and I have remained true lovers for over 10 years," continues the letter. "We have often talked plainly about the temptations which are wrecking homes everywhere. My husband and I agree that right-minded persons are paying no attention to the disintegrating influences at work in society today. In your letters please remember to write occasionally for married lovers."

Having given "right-mindedness" as the first requisite for matrimony, HAPPY WIFE hasn't left much for me to say, except that right-mindedness is obviously the normal condition for a successful marriage, and as essential to it as air is to life. Right-minded husbands and wives never try to restrain individual liberty. Neither would impose upon the other. Neither would cheat the other.

"I will be true, for there is one who trusts me." Thus they turn and apply personally a very lovely line of poetry.

In these letters, we have been considering some of the reasons science has lately given for human weaknesses, especially for our emotional weaknesses.

But science, in explaining why men and women misbehave, unfortunately has provided some persons with apologies for their own misconduct. Science today carefully excuses certain humans for being no better than they are. Criminals and the insane are explained as products of drunkenness, starvation, etc.

Environment tells why we can't help being what we are. Thus science has provided rather clever people, of a certain type of mind, with pretences for evading their duties, and for failing to live up to very moderate standards of human decency.

A disregard of the obligations of marriage and maternity is one of the unfortunate by-products of much recent information about the instability of the emotions. And geniuses who write some of our popular fiction openly discuss the home, after love has crashed, as if nothing remained to hold it together!

There is much in matrimony besides love. There are many confusing and conflicting kinds of love, but of right-mindedness there is but one variety. When it exists, any matrimonial venture will survive.

COFFEE IN CAKE

I've left-over coffee for flavoring desserts and cake frostings.

Coffee has a distinctive flavor used all by itself and adds much to chocolate or vanilla if used in combination.

If left-over coffee is allowed to stand exposed to the air it will lose its strength. Pour it from the grounds and keep in a tightly covered jar or bottle.

COFFEE PUDDING (COLD)

Two cups coffee, 3-4 cup sugar, 1-16 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons granulated gelatine, 1-4 cup cold water, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup whipping cream.

Soften gelatine in cold water. Pour over coffee reheated to the boiling point with the sugar and salt. Stir until dissolved. When cool add vanilla. When beginning to set add cream whipped stiff. Fold the cream into the jelly and turn the whole into a mold. Set aside to chill and become firm. Serve with a sponge cake or plain white cake.

COFFEE PUDDING (HOT)

One and one-half cups stale bread crumbs from soft part of loaf, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup coffee, 4 eggs, 3-4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Melt butter, add bread crumbs, sugar and coffee and cook, stirring constantly, till thick and smooth. Fold in the yolks of the eggs beaten till thick and lemon colored. Add vanilla. Fold in the whites of the eggs beaten stiff and dry. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake half an hour in a moderate oven. If the whites of the eggs are not beaten till "stiff and dry" the pudding will be a failure. Serve with coffee sauce.

COFFEE SAUCE

One and one-half cups powdered sugar, 1-2 cup reheated coffee, 4 tablespoons melted butter, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla.

Beat the hot coffee into the sugar. Add melted butter and continue beating. The sauce should be a little softer than had sauce. (Copyright, 1921.)

TAFFY

Roll over a slow fire 1 quart of molasses and 1 gill of water. Stir in one tablespoon of butter and 1 teaspoon of brown sugar. Boil until mixture hardens in water then turn into buttered pan.

WEDNESDAY AT BUEHLER BROS. 20 Public square, fresh liver sliced, lb., 5c; fresh tender chucksteak, lb., 15c; sugar cured smoked skinned hams; no waste, half or whole lb., 25c.

RISE AND FALL OF LIMA EMPIRE

Kids' Ku Klux Too Visible to Long Continue.
K. O. K. A. CLUB IS RECALLED
New York Post Tells of Its Story Existence.

A special story appearing recently in The New York Post, written by Harold J. Seymour, 150 Nassau-st., New York City, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Seymour, 610 W. Market-st., recalls the existence of a former Lima club, of which he was a member with Joseph Davison, Don McSaffery, Frank Hume, Carl Dorsey, Tom Sprague, Franklin Cover, Joseph Coulston and others.

Seymour, a Lima boy born and bred, is with the John Price Jones publicity corporation in New York. The story referred to is proof of the fact that a kid's ku klux klan was once visible to stay an empire.

"The high visibility of certain inflexible empires give occasion for recalling the exploits and untimely demise of another order," Seymour writes. "The Ku Klux Klan has nothing on what was once a local chapter of the K. O. K. A. located in Lima and closely associated with the trials and worries of a Sunday school teacher and an esteemed member of the police department, formerly known to us boys as Soup-bone Johnson."

Our Sunday school teacher, a versatile young man just out of college, conceived the jolly idea that the only way to keep young knaves out of mischief was to organize them into a secret society. So far so good; the idea went over like a quart of the Niagara River. If there was anything us boys did want it was a secret society, with lots of secrecy. So he fixed us up with the K. O. K. A. We got a local chapter, and a seal, and a ritual, and everything they had in the shop.

The K. O. K. A., it must be known, were the Knights of Klux Arthur. The author's manuscript called for a large assignment of mighty acts, in which all the boys were to see who could be most like Sir Galahad. The Holy Grail was down for a big scene in every act. Merlin, the Sunday school teacher, Walter Jackson, was to see that if the knights did their acts according to the script. As moral uplift, if the mothers agreed, it was to be perfect knockout.

While we took turns being initiated, all went well. King Arthur, the biggest boy, sat there with a magnificent wooden exhalator. Sir Somebody-or-Other, the sergeants-at-arms, stood by the window in the old arm, thrilling us all with the past-oral ritual, as fellow knights came p the rope ladder, which hung out of the rear, what was discerning pattern could see was a most. We weren't fussy about geometrical details; the round table was a soap box.

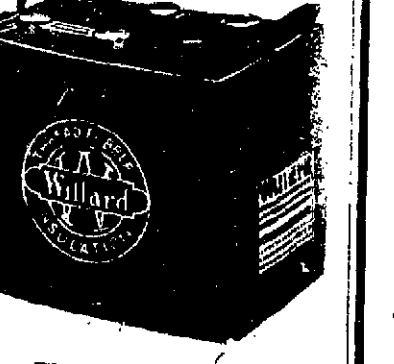

But after the first few meetings when all the gang had been duly initiated, things began to pall, and one day the knights met at noon, in Merlin's absence. The rope ladder, as password, the rollcall, and then silence. No knight, not even the one himself could think of anything, so to do.

The routine, however, suddenly ended the alarm. The knights came to the castle walls. All eyes came with battle ardor, were fixed to the road. It was he—the foe of Christendom—the arch-enemy of true knights—the most hated in merry England! It was Sergt. Soupbone Johnson, the human skeleton of the Lima Police Department.

WAS JUVENILE WAR
Did we falter? A thousand times. Far back was flung the good old arm of the gallant Galahad. He went to the good ripe vegetable lot, and spat it out. Johnson, it was satisfactorily indeed. A shout out from the castle walls, and with one voice the neighborhood sounded with "Soupbone! Soupbone! Soupbone! Yah, Soupbone." Thus, my friends began the his-ic siege of King Arthur's castle. It didn't take long, either, for Johnson, being an agile and athletic individual, took us by storm. We ignored the niceties of lightly warfare and forsook the rope ladder for the stairs, a thing which never would have done with But he got us, nevertheless, and the hay in King Arthur's court didn't save us from the chastisement which followed.

After the enemy had conferred with Merlin and several of the knights' mothers, we decided that K. O. K. A. had served its usefulness. In short, the order was dissolved. The fault lay not with the fire, but with the empire's visibility.

REVIVAL SPIRIT IS STRONG IN AUGLAIZE

The revival spirit is sweeping the community of the Auglaize United Brethren church, Auglaize-tp, where meetings are being conducted under the leadership of Evangelist C. V. Roop, Findlay. There has been a large number of conversions and accessions.

A meeting for women will be held on next Thursday at 2 p. m. The meetings will close October 2, when an all-day service and dinner will be held. W. J. Spring is pastor and J. F. Becker, Sunday school superintendent.

BUSINESS MAN IS TAKEN IN DEATH

Frank Xavier Sieber Succumbs to Pneumonia Attack.

Frank Xavier Sieber, 59, widely-known business man of the city, died at his home, 523 W. Spring-st., Monday at 9:45 p. m., after an illness since Saturday, of pneumonia. Deceased held stock in and was identified with many Lima industrial and commercial concerns.

He was taken ill Saturday, when he complained of a severe cold. He grew steadily worse and became seriously ill Sunday evening. Early Monday morning he lapsed into unconsciousness and remained so until death came.

Frank X. Sieber was born in Tiffin on May 23, 1863. He has resided in Lima many years, living until recently at 402 W. Market-st. Later he purchased the residence of the late J. D. S. Neely, 620 W. Spring-st., where the family has resided for the past several years.

Surviving are the widow and six children. Children are: Mrs. A. H. Brugner, Mrs. A. F. Bryan, Mrs. C. P. Scanlon, Mrs. R. A. Conroy, Mrs. Charlotte Sieber and John Alfred Sieber, all of Lima. A nephew, Frank M. Seiber, resides in Pontiac, Mich.

He was a director of the American Bank and of the First National bank. He was a member of Lima lodge, No. 54, B. P. O. Elks, Rotary club, lodges of Eagles, Moose and Catholic Order of Foresters and belonged to the Lima club. He was a member of the St. John's Catholic church.

Funeral services will be held from St. John's Catholic church, Thursday at 9 a. m. The Rev. Father Leonard Plumans will be celebrant of the solemn requiem high mass. The body will be entombed in the mausoleum at Gethsemani cemetery.

LIMA BOY MAKES HIGH SCORE IN RIFLE SHOOT

Paul A. Sheely, sergeant in the U. S. Marine Corps, won the championship of his arm of the service at Camp Perry recently when he captured marksmanship honors during the National Rifle shoot.

Sheely, who is on furlough, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Lydia Sheely, 1010 Brice-ave. He was awarded a large silver cup for making the best score among the Marines shooting at the meet.

At 600 yards he scored 18 bulls' eyes and one two nolinks shooting from a distance of 1,000 yards, his score was 19 bull's eyes and one 4.

While we took turns being initiated, all went well. King Arthur, the biggest boy, sat there with a magnificent wooden exhalator. Sir Somebody-or-Other, the sergeants-at-arms, stood by the window in the old arm, thrilling us all with the past-oral ritual, as fellow knights came p the rope ladder, which hung out of the rear, what was discerning pattern could see was a most. We weren't fussy about geometrical details; the round table was a soap box.

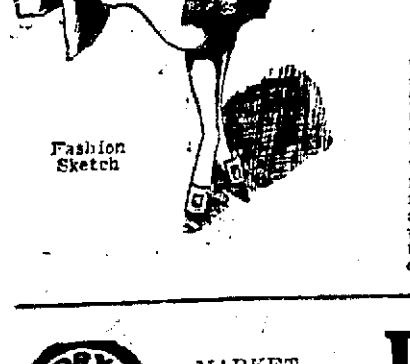

But after the first few meetings when all the gang had been duly initiated, things began to pall, and one day the knights met at noon, in Merlin's absence. The rope ladder, as password, the rollcall, and then silence. No knight, not even the one himself could think of anything, so to do.

The routine, however, suddenly ended the alarm. The knights came to the castle walls. All eyes came with battle ardor, were fixed to the road. It was he—the foe of Christendom—the arch-enemy of true knights—the most hated in merry England! It was Sergt. Soupbone Johnson, the human skeleton of the Lima Police Department.

WAS JUVENILE WAR
Did we falter? A thousand times. Far back was flung the good old arm of the gallant Galahad. He went to the good ripe vegetable lot, and spat it out. Johnson, it was satisfactorily indeed. A shout out from the castle walls, and with one voice the neighborhood sounded with "Soupbone! Soupbone! Soupbone! Yah, Soupbone." Thus, my friends began the his-ic siege of King Arthur's castle. It didn't take long, either, for Johnson, being an agile and athletic individual, took us by storm. We ignored the niceties of lightly warfare and forsook the rope ladder for the stairs, a thing which never would have done with But he got us, nevertheless, and the hay in King Arthur's court didn't save us from the chastisement which followed.

After the enemy had conferred with Merlin and several of the knights' mothers, we decided that K. O. K. A. had served its usefulness. In short, the order was dissolved. The fault lay not with the fire, but with the empire's visibility.

CHILD WELFARE BODY SOUNDS APPEAL FOR CHILDREN'S CLOTHING

The Allen-co Child Welfare association is seriously in need of cast-off clothing for the little children in its care.

They are making an appeal, asking that all mothers who have waists for little boys or dresses for little girls which have been outgrown, to notify Miss Eunice Trumbo, welfare worker, at Memorial hall, Telephone Main 6592, and the clothing will be called for.

Miss Trumbo says mothers need not mind the clothing nor supply buttons which may be off, but just so it is sent to the welfare association clean, is all that is required. Buttons will be added and mending done by the association.

Clothing is needed to outfit a child whose mother is in the hospital and several little ones whose parents are ill. Anything that a child can wear will be gratefully accepted, Miss Trumbo says.

"SCHOOL DAYS, SCHOOL DAYS"
Do you remember the old song about school days being golden rule days? It is wrong to send a coughing, sneezing, spitting child to school to spread disease germs among other little ones. Common colds are infectious. Protect your own and other little ones with Foley's Honey and Tar. This safe family remedy checks coughs and colds, loosens phlegm and mucous and coats raw, irritating membranes with a healing, soothing medicine.—Chas. J. Vortkamp, Main and McKibben-sts.—Adv.

Regular meeting of Trinity Chapter No. 16, O. E. S., Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. Visiting members are invited to attend.

Team Is Light

SPRINGFIELD—In getting ready for the opening game with Oberlin on Saturday, Coach Godfrey is drilling the Wittenberg eleven in new plays and signals.

Fearing further injuries to his squad Godfrey has cancelled the scrimmage program. Several punters were being developed at the Lutheran school on account of the lightness of the new team which is made up mostly of green timber.

Babe Ruth Sets His Goal At 60 Homers For Year

NEW YORK—With a total of 58 home runs hit this year, Babe Ruth of the New York Yankees today was pointing toward a mark of sixty, which he hopes to attain before the season closes. He has five games in which to reach the three score figure.

Ruth walloped the ball for two circuit clouts in the game against Cleveland yesterday. A two-bagger gave him a perfect batting average. He also hit two homers in one day last year, off Pitcher Rummel of the Philadelphia Athletics on September 17.

In the four games just finished against Cleveland, the president of the Home Run Club averaged .727 with the bat, making eight hits for a total of 18 bases.

Work Defensive

CINCINNATI—Defensive work is being made the feature of Cincinnati University football squad's campaign in preparation for their meeting with West Virginia at Morgantown, Saturday.

The Cincinnati line will be out-weighted at least six pounds to the man by the Mountaineers and will have to make up this difference in skill and right, according to Coach Boyd Chambers, who expressed himself as confident of victory.

Find Weak Spot

HIRAM—Hiram's defeat by Case Saturday revealed some striking weaknesses in the line. Practice this week will be largely confined to correcting these weak spots.

Seven of the players who lined up last Saturday were playing their first game of college football and made a good debut altho defeated. Coach Tillison will run practically the same eleven against Wooster Saturday.

LOOKS LIKE BOTH NEW YORK TEAMS ARE TO WIN

FATHER Knickerbocker's two major league baseball clubs, Yankees and Giants, breathed easier today than they have for quite a spell. They could look back at their nearest rivals, the Cleveland Indians and the Pittsburgh Pirates, respectively, without seeing them so close at their heels.

The Yanks were fifteen steps ahead of the world's champions from Ohio and their senior fellow citizens had a lead of 25 pages over the Western Pennsylvanians.

Two more victories out of four games for the Giants and the pennant will be theirs, even tho the Pirates be successful in all their remaining games.

If the Yankees win three of five games left on their schedule, they will be the American League champions, despite a possible clean sweep by Cleveland in their final four game series with the White Sox.

The Yankees may not find the going so easy today with the St. Louis Browns, their opponents, especially if Urban Shocker, their old link, twirls against them. Shocker, a former Yankee, who has beaten them several times this season, was at the Polo grounds yesterday and served notice on Manager Huggins' men that he means to pitch today and beat them.

THREE OUT OF FOUR

The 8 to 7 victory for New York over Cleveland yesterday made it three out of four in the "little world series." Featuring the final thrilling battle was Ruth's batting, Miller's spectacular fielding and Mays' pitching.

Ruth hit two homers and a double, Miller saved the game for the Yankees in the eighth by a shoe-string catch off Speaker's bat, with two runners on base.

Mays, who won Sunday's game, relieved Fohl in the eighth and kept the Indians from further scoring. Ruth's, Cleveland's first baseman, made the most hits of the game—four, one a triple—in five times at bat.

The Philadelphia Nationals' first Pittsburgh victory this year came just as the New York Nationals were defeating St. Louis, Pitcher Nehi holding the clouting Cardinals to five hits. Thus the distance was widened between the Giants and Pirates.

The Philadelphia Athletics also defeated the Chicago White Sox, although Fohl, who was in the press box at the Indian-Yank game and saw Tris Speaker, his successor, make the same mistake three times. Speaker's slip of judgment practically cost the Cleveland Indians the American League pennant.

Coveleskie and Uhle pitched to Ruth and the Bambino got two homers and a double, accounting for five runs.

Those five, as it may turn out, gave the pennant to the Yanks.

TO SHOW 'EM HOW

"The Browns are going to take the Yanks today. Wait and see if Ruth gets a chance to hit one. It's suicide for a manager to let that Bam get a cut at one. I found that out long ago," Fohl said after the Yanks had taken the fourth game and the series three to one.

Critics and fans agreed that yesterday's battle was one of the greatest games of ball ever played. The Indians fought like maniacs until Steve O'Neill fanned in the ninth inning with two on and two out. Fight as they did, tho, the Indians could not overcome the Ruth handicap.

With a two-game lead, the Yanks now have to win three out of their five remaining games to clinch the pennant.

During 1920, 18,761 flights were made in the work of civil government flying over the direction of the Canadian Air Board.

Record Crowd At New York-Indian Baseball Series

NEW YORK—A total of 141,000 persons, a new attendance record for four consecutive baseball games, passed thru the turnstiles to see the New York-Cleveland "little world series" just finished at the Polo grounds.

The figures, made public today by Ed Barlow, business manager of the Yankees, did not include 1,500 "dead-ends" per day, so that the number of persons who actually saw the games was 142,000.

THOUSANDS TURNED AWAY

Approximately 32,000 were present Friday; 38,000 Saturday; 41,000 Sunday and 30,000 yesterday. Thousands were turned away from the park on Sunday.

The best world's series attendance record was in 1912 when 156,996 fans witnessed the first four games between the New York Giants and the Boston Red Sox.

Leading Golfers Tee Off In Meet

NEW YORK—Thirty two of the nation's leading professional golfers will tee off today at the Inwood, Long Island links in the annual professional championship tournament. The tournament will open at 11 a. m. and all of the world's leading golfers will be in the clubhouse at Washington.

Jack Hutchinson of Chicago, holder of the British open championship, and the American professional title holder, will be pitted against the top amateur, Pat O'Hara, of the Richmond County Club, New York.

"Long Jim" Barnes, of the Pelham club, New York, holder of the national open title, will have C. Hackney, of Atlanta City club for an opponent.

After Record

COLUMBUS—The feature event of today's Grand Circuit race program will be the effort of Peter Manning, 1.58 to further lower the track record he made here last week when he trotted the mile in 1:09 1-4.

The 2:05 trot, 2:05 pace, 2:08 trot, 2:17 pace and the 2:15 trot are the other events on today's card.

SQUAD IS CUT

OBERLIN—Oberlin's varsity football squad has been cut to forty-four players by Coach Metcalf. These men were put thru a hard practice but no scrimmage with the opening of this week's drill.

Scrimmage against the high school eleven has been announced for today and Wednesday in order to condition the team for its game with Wittenberg Saturday.

And only 12 times have the men thus jammed into the breach put over the old wallop, in quest of which they were introduced into the lineup.

Will pinch hitters in the series now coming up be able to better this record?

Abolition of freak pitching and, introduction of a live ball, which turned baseball into a game of free and heavy hitting, ought to turn out upon 63 times in world series, games dating back as far as 1903, the real beginning of the international league postseason classic.

Pinch hitters once decided a world series. They were Engle and Olaf Henriksen, pinching for the Red Sox in 1912, in the last game of the series with the New York Giants. The teams had each won three games.

The great Mathewson was in the box and the Giants were leading by one run when Boston came up in the seventh inning. There were two out and one on base. Bedient, turned baseball into a game of free and sent in a young Danish outfielder, Olaf Henriksen, to pinch-hit. Henriksen struck at one ball. The next was a called strike. The Giants were getting all set for the grave when Olaf caught the third ball on the nose for a double, scoring Stahl with the tying run.

In the tenth inning New York scores again. A second Red Sox pinch hitter, with the aid of Mr. Snodgrass' well-remembered muff, made it possible for Boston to win.

Engle batted for Wood and lifted the high one that Snodgrass let trickle thru his fingers. Speaker then scored Engle with the tying run, and the winning run came in on Gardner's sacrifice fly.

Lima Bowlers Anxious To Enter News' Individual Cup Tourney

INTEREST in the News' Individual Bowling Championship tournament is spreading among Lima pin artists like an epidemic of red measles.

They're talking it, and from present indications over 500 of 'em will gather at the Broadway alleys Friday night at 8 o'clock to form the Lima Bowling Association, in affiliation with the American Bowling congress.

There is no doubt but that a hot race will be in vogue all winter to determine who is the best bowler in this city. That is what the tournament is for.

Everybody is eligible. Prizes will be given the high scorers, and it will be a tournament that will be the talk of the town.

All alley owners in Lima will be at the meeting. Entries will be made there, and plans made for fixing a schedule to run thruout the winter.

A proposed high level bridge between Portsmouth and Norfolk, Va., will have a span of 1850 feet between towers.

The primitive weights and measures of the Chinese were made of jade.

Ohio Horse Wins Feature Race At Columbus Track

COLUMBUS—A long program was reeled off at the Driving Park Monday without any contests out of the ordinary.

The scoring was protracted, the attempt to institute the free system of semi-standing starts proving a dismal failure and being abandoned after a trial in the first heat of the day.

The feature race was the 2:05 trot, which was won by the veteran Ohio gelding, Peter Coley, who cut his record to 2:04 1-2 in winning the third heat. Three of the five events finished went to the limit of four heats.

HERE'S AUCTION SET

Natalie the Great, $50; Peter Coley $40, and the field, $30, was the auction selling on the 30th, was the auctioneer's first heat in the home stretch, then Millie Irwin passed her close to the wire but went to a break and the Laurel Hill filly lost the decision.

Natalie broke in the second heat, which was won by Millie Irwin, and she jumped again in the third, in which Peter Coley cut his record.

Peter Coley led all the way in the final. The double-gaited champion, Prince Loree, which paced to a record of 2:00 last year and won two pacing races on the Grand Circuit this year, started in this race, his first attempt to race as a trotter in two years. He forced Peter Coley out in the fast heat.

HAVE FOUR HEATS

The 2:04 pacers battled for heat, the Canadian gelding, Senator Wilkes, finally winning, the second choice, Captain Mack, winning the second heat. Roger C, an Indian nag, was easy in the 2:11 pace, and Peter Daw had no trouble in annexing the final heat of the 2:13 trot, carried over from Saturday.

Wanda Ray came from behind and won the unfinished 2:15 pace, in which two heats were raced on Saturday.

W. M. Wright, of Chicago, who bred the champion trotter, Peter Manning and sold him to Irving Gleason, of Williamsport, Penn., for $21,000 two years ago, to-day offered Gleason $30,000 for the horse.

Gleason declined and stated that he would not consider any offer for the horse until he had beaten the world's trotting record of 1:58, which Peter Manning holds jointly with Urban.

Remodeling 'Em

AKRON—Akron University grid-ders begin the week patching up the weaknesses brought out by the Reserve game last Saturday. Holes in the line and weaknesses in the backfield were dwelt on by Coaches Sefton and Sawyer.

A hard week is in store for the blue and gold in preparation for the game with Case here next Saturday. The battle promises to be one of the hardest of the season, and no chances are to be taken, as Akron will strive to down their keeneast rivals and keep in the little race.

ROMANCE, RICHES IN DISPUTE OVER COPPER MINE

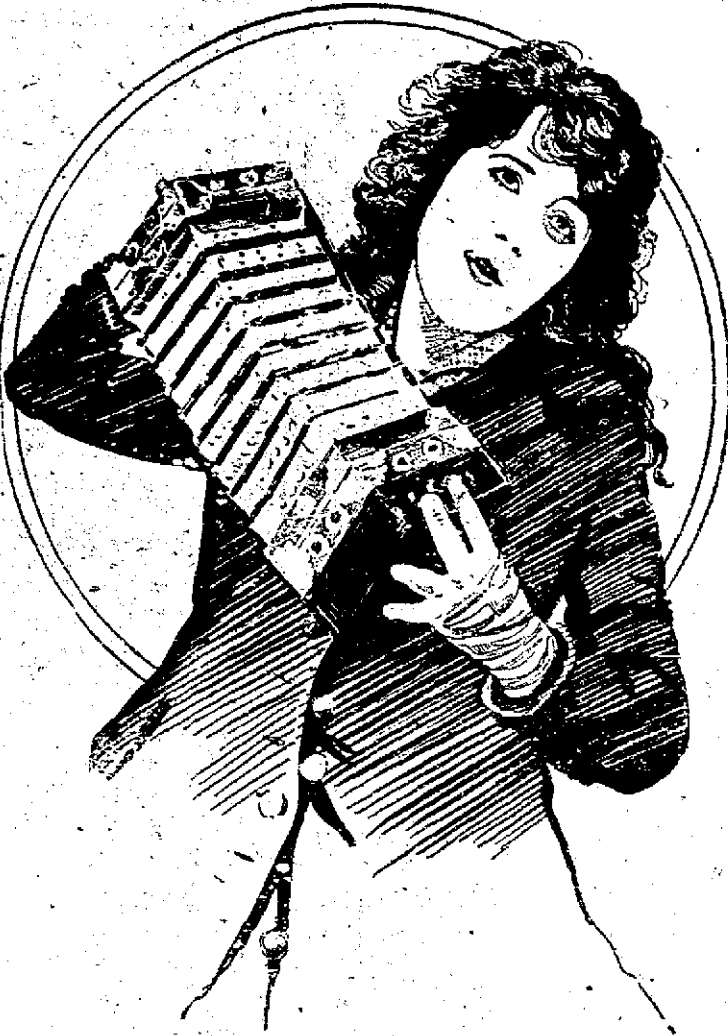

(By ESTHER WAGNER.)
RAINBOW Hallday is a girl who owns a rich copper mine. Or rather she thinks she owns it. She meets the handsome George Standish. He owns the mine, but she doesn't know it. She learns to love Standish, and when she finds he is engaged to another girl—and she simultaneously learns that the mine secretly belongs to him—she is willing to sacrifice both love and riches. Then the "other woman" steps in. And there is jealousy and bitterness. And Rainbow changes her mind and hangs onto the mine. And in the end Standish realizes which is the "right girl." That's the story of Alice Calhoun's newest film vehicle. Miss Calhoun is starred as "Rainbow Hallday" in the picture, "Rainbow." That is her name and it is also the name of the mine. It is a story of the conflict between love and riches. In it Miss Calhoun has the opportunity to display her art in the sudden transformation from the girl of the mining town, who knows nothing of the splendors of cities and the luxuries of fine clothes, to the beautiful young woman of the city.

As the little country girl she had been treated like a child by Standish. Her's was an unrequited love, and when she discovers that the copper mine her father had left her really belonged to him, she was unselfish enough to wish him to have it to make him happy.

But she didn't bargain for the cold, callous Estelle Jackson—the woman Standish was to marry. Now the three old friends of her father—who were her foster "daddies." The former was going to take the mine away from Rainbow, and the latter were determined she should keep it. Everything ends happily when Standish comes seeking her, not to his claim to the disputed mine, but to ask her to marry him.

In the picture, which is released by Vitaphone, Jack Roach plays the part of Standish. Cecil Kern is Estelle, and William Gross, Charles Kent and Tom O'Malley are the foster "daddies."

This is Rainbow Hallday—Alice Calhoun—heroine of a drama in which her love and the ownership of a mine are at stake.

and production in the mammoth revue "Scandals."

Into a score of elaborate and beautiful backgrounds, Mr. White has placed a long list of prominent players that have helped to make musical comedy worth while.

There are many hitting tunes that delight the ear and enough modern and eccentric dancing to please the most fastidious patron of Terpsichore, which runs from soft shoe to the more classical dances.

White looks for the individual and unusual in the theatre and in these departures he has been more than successful and so we now look forward to his yearly productions with pleasure knowing that we will not be disappointed in the astute manager's offering. He has given his principals and chorus in lavish manner and they bring to the score and brilliant dialogue a freshness that gives the touch of excellence and unforgettability to the entire performance.

THEATRE DIRECTORY

AT THE FAUROT

Cecil B. DeMille's "The Affairs of Anatol" with Wallace Reid, Gloria Swanson, Agnes Ayres, Bebe Daniels, Elliott Dexter, Monte Blue, Theodore Roberts, Wanda Hawley and several other noteworthy stars is the special attraction today and all week at the Faurot Opera House.

AT THE REGENT

Rupert Hughes "The Old Nest," with Mary Alden and a special cast, is the attraction today at the Regent theatre. One of the prize productions of the year.

The Great Richards Is Truly a Wizard

A truly amazing performance, one that will linger long in your memory, is the exhibition of illusions, mysteries, scientific wonders, physical or psychromental wonders as given by the Great Richards, appearing at the Orpheum today and all this week.

Besides answering any question that you may ask him, the renowned Richards gives one of the most entertaining, and astounding performance you ever attended. You sit there with your eyes wide and your mouth invariably open, watching him hypnotize a girl and suspend her in mid air for several minutes—no strings attached, as is proven. A phonograph playing a his victrol record, vanishes before your eyes; strange objects are taken from nowhere; stranger objects are turned into foreign substances. Whatever the cause, slight-of-hand, optical illusions, or psychological science, the fact remains that the Great Richards DOES effect just what he claims to do.

Persons having lost articles, such as fountain pens, rings and wives, can find them thru his aid; in fact, any question you may wish to ask will be answered truthfully and straight-forwardly.

By way of variety, several first-rate banjo selections are given in between acts by Teddy Schwab, who created a lasting impression in his initial appearance. The entire presentation, lasting approximately two hours, is given in such a bewildering rapidity that one trick follows right on the heels of the last. Certainly you will be amazed and entertained every minute of the time you spend there.

This extraordinary attraction will be continued at the Orpheum all this week, with matinees on Friday and Saturday.

Bebe Daniels In "The March Hare"

BEBE DANIELS is at her best as a good girl possessed of the devil, and the producers display great mental acumen when they gave her a play in which she is the daughter of wealthy parents, who hold the reins too tightly. All the director has to say is, "Giddyup!" and young Bebe fairly runs away with the picture.

In "The March Hare" she has a happy role, that of Elizabeth Ann Palmer, whose father is so fed up on her pranks that he decides to send her East to visit his sister in New York. They're all ready to go, papa and the chaperone, but no Bebe. Where is she? Out in the back lot, playing baseball with the kids. Of course they miss the train, but Bebe makes a dash for it in her automobile and overtakes it at the next station. And having such a flying start, the picture is bound to get your interest and hold it.

The tale develops into one of those well-worn "fool bets" stories, with Bebe the perpetrator of this particular bet. She wagers a certain sum that she can live in New York on seventy-five cents, for a whole week. Does she do it? Well, she certainly does, and in the doing she saves the family "joos," gets herself a husband, etc.

Miss Daniels is developing a zest and action about her scenes that reminds one a little of Connie Tallmadge, and at other times of Dorothy Gish. In the person of Harry Myers, as the big awkward millionaire from the West, she has splendor; Mayme Kelso as auntie does her usual good work with such role and Helen Jerome Eddy, as the bogus Elizabeth Ann, and the real thing, is a scream. We never knew Miss Eddy could do it.

A crowd of youngsters sitting tight behind me, at the showing yesterday, thought the picture was "a each." And you can take it from me, these sweet young flappers don't miss a thing in a picture.

"The March Hare" is at the Regent.

"The Road to London"

A COMEDY drama with a certain percentage of humor, unusual circumstances and a more or less interesting story is "The Road to London," in which Frank Washburn is starred. He made the picture in London, "it seems," and all the scenes are prominent places there. Of course, we have never been to London, but people who have, say that the locations are not "stills" but the real thing, the scenery they have in London.

Mr. Washburn is a tourist over here, and, according to the story, chances to look upon a comely maiden in a taxi. Her eyes seem to fairly shriek (if eyes can shriek) at S. O. S. call, and forthwith the young man hires a cab and follows. It develops that the girl is being forced to marry a man who is a villain. She doesn't want. So the "ave young tourist" rescues her. If you have a scrap of imagination left

"A HONEYMOON IN PARIS—LET'S GO!"

She was young and twenty, she was in love, life was sweet. What more natural than that she should forget her promise to stay with mother, alone in the empty house that once was so crowded?

"The Old Nest" tells a story with its dominant motif the fiercest, sweetest, most loyal and most divine of all the passions of the soul.

 NOW PLAYING
 There is something about Hawaiian music which seems to reach out and grasp one's innermost soul. One almost detects the fragrance of flowers as one listens to the dreamy melodies, imagination reaches glorious heights, one is transported far out and away from the prosaic workaday realm to the beautiful balmy shores.

Maurice Tourneur's "The Life Line," with a special cast, opens a two-day engagement at the Majestic.

MOVIES: $5 PER SEAT

Would you pay $5 to see a movie? That's the price charged at the world premiere of "Peter Ibbetson," the first picturization of the De Maurier novel at the Hotel Plaza in New York. The $5-showing was arranged between the Paramount and the Film Mutual Benefit Bureau, an organization which throws open the homes of prominent society people as locations for pictures made in and around New York. Fees charged for these locations are contributed to Anne Morgan's American Committee for Devastated France and the Maternity Center of New York. Proceeds of the "Peter Ibbetson" premiere go to the same charities.

WHERE ALL THE MARKS GO
 Is Germany broke? Not as far as motion pictures are concerned. According to Lichtblutbuchne, the capital invested in the German film industry last January 1 was 98,751,000 marks. And on July 1 the amount had risen to 192,035,800 marks.

CINEMAGRAMS
 Ann Forest is in France filming "Love's Boomerang."

Thomas Meighan's next vehicle will be "A Private Daddy."

Pearl White has finished the Fox picture, "Open Your Eyes."

Nazimova is going to try repetition in film production, her first step being picturization of Oscar Wilde's "Salome" and Ibsen's "A Doll's House."

CONCERT AT MEMORIAL HALL

Byron G. Harlan's present function in this world is to entertain people with his delightful rendition of clever songs. But in spite of his amusing way on the stage Mr. Harlan is decidedly a serious "business man."

He didn't start to study music till he was twenty-four years old. Then he left his home and went to Chicago. He secured an engagement with an opera company and then appeared in "A Texas Steer." It was right here that Mr. Harlan's business ability came to the fore. So he started a company of his own and became a producer himself.

Harlan believes firmly that a musical training is one of the best preparations in the world for the perfecting of a business mind.

And so Mr. Harlan has proved for he makes a serious business of being funny! The enormous success of Collins and Harlan as "America's Favorite Entertainers" is proof enough of Mr. Harlan's business sense.

Collins and Harlan will give one of their inimitable performances in Memorial Hall on Monday night. They promise to trot out all their funniest songs for the delectation of the residents of this city.

SHORT SHAVINGS

Frank Eberle, angler and hunter, didn't get any squirrels on a trip this week. But he met another hunter who said he knows where to go for some next year. "I found a squirrel's nest," said his friend, "with four eggs in it."

Harley East, banker, reports his wife makes the lightest biscuits he ever saw. "I turned on the electric fan while we were at dinner," he says, "and it blew all the biscuits off the table."

Cloyd J. Brotherton, attorney, says an Erie detective in Lima undertook to "order out" several tramps who were riding a freight train.

"You've got to get out of here, you bums—no riding these cars any longer," the Erie cop told the fellows who he caught on the cars.

"We're not bums, we're just Mr. Harding's traveling men," they replied, according to Brotherton.

Dale Creman put his new fall hat on a chair beside him in the restaurant so he could watch it. He saw a waitress making off with his hat and asked her where she was taking it. "Someone should take it to a museum," she said. "But I'm only going to hang it up."

Dr. J. B. Poling was called at an insanity inquest in probate court one day last week. The physician did not arrive and did not come for some hours after the time set by the court for the hearing.

"My gracious, doctor, what is the matter? What kept you so long and delayed the hearing?" the court asked when the physician did show up.

"It's a boy," the doctor said, proudly referring to the latest addition to his list of new-born babies."

Ira Basinger, dentist, says he got a lot out of his home garden this summer. "I got a lot of exercise," he says. "And about a half dollar's worth of vegetables."

COULD HARDLY STRAIGHTEN UP
When the kidneys are overworked or disordered and fail to throw out waste matter from the system, it causes aches, pains, lame back, swollen ankles, sore joints, dizziness, floating specks, etc. J. W. Seabock, Chester, Pa., writes: "My kidneys and back hurt me so when I got out of bed in the morning I could hardly straighten up. Had to rub the small of my back before I could walk. I could hardly button my shirt. Haven't felt the soreness since I took Foley Kidney Pills. Chas. J. Vertkamp, Main and McKibben-sts.—Adv."
